'DODGED NO ISSUES'

Sorensen Terms 1965 Unicameral 'Best Ever'

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Lt. Gov. Philip Sorensen Friday hailed the 1965 Legislature as "probably the best in the history of the Unicameral."

Nebraska has had a one-house Legislature since 1937. Sorensen pronounced his judgment based on the 1965 session's accomplishments and the fact that "there has not been a single issue which this Legislature has dodged or swept under the rug."

Constructive Leadership
Members of the 1965 session "have provided able, imaginative and constructive leadership for Nebraska in the Sixties," Sorensen declared.

"I am proud to have been their presiding officer and to have served with them."

Asked what he might list among the Legislature's major accomplishments, Sorensen named:

—the income tax law.
—public power consolidation.

—bills reorganizing state executive departments.

—legislation settling the interest rate dilemma.

—area concept bills in the fields of vocational education and special education.

—budget bills generally and the six-year capital construction program specifically.

Independent Judgment
Lawmakers have "exercised independent judgment time and time again," Sorensen said, "in spite of great pressures. They have been thoughtful, conscientious and courageous."

"They have looked into the future of Nebraska, its potential and its needs, and they have tried to provide the state with the tools to meet its potential and the services to meet its needs."

In spite of what the lieutenant governor labeled as "false criticism," senators have "never forgotten that they are only representatives of the people and that the taxpayers must foot the costs of all legislative expenditures."

Accomplishments enacted by the 1965 session are partially a reflection of "a change of attitude in the state," Sorensen said.

"In recent years, Nebraskans have begun to take the attitude that Nebraska has a great potential, both economically and socially, for the future and that the proper use of and investment of tax monies at the state level can greatly accelerate the reaching of this potential and contribute much to the well-being of the state and all its citizens."

"A majority of the members of this Legislature recognized this as the attitude of the people."

"And the quality of the men and women serving in this body was such that they were willing to move forward in spite of the pressure from selfish interests in many areas which prefer to preserve the status quo."

Sorensen's accolade was delivered following legislative adjournment for the weekend. The final gavel is expected to fall upon the longest Unicameral session in history on Tuesday.

Remaining for final action are 14 bills, six of which will be subjected to a final vote Monday afternoon.

Among the eight measures scheduled for action Tuesday in the final hours of the 75th session is LB925, this Legislature's second effort to write a constitutional reapportionment act.

Land Sale Arguments Are Heard

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Opposing views over the proposed sale of the state-owned school lands were heard Friday before Gov. Frank Morrison.

LB234, proposing the sale of the 1.6 million acres, is on Morrison's desk for approval or disapproval by midnight Monday.

Under the measure, the school lands, now valued at $83.5 million, would be sold as leases expire and proceeds invested for the benefit of Nebraska's elementary and secondary schools.

Senators Favor

Meeting with the governor were members of the Board of Educational Lands and Funds, who opposed the sale, and senators who favor the sale.

H. L. Blackledge of Kearney, board chairman, said the board "thinks it would be a mistake to dispose of the public lands held in trust all these years."

"In a word," he said, "it would be gambling with Nebraska's future in reverse. If we sell the land we are saying the state is worth about all it's ever going to be worth now."

But Sen. Ramey Whitney, chief spokesman for the bill, said the return on the state-owned lands has been only 27% over the past 12 years while investment in corporate stock has returned 15% over the past 35 years.

Sen. Frank Nelson urged that state lands pay nothing for support of local government except an in-lieu-of-taxes payment to the local school district.

Improvements
However, Tom Allington, rancher member of the school lands board, questioned whether the bill "adequately protects the leaseholders who have made improvements if the land is sold."

Jerome J. DeLay, Norfolk banker and board member, said investment in corporate stock has a higher return, but "there shouldn't be speculation with a public trust."

Other board members suggested the return on sound, conservative stock hasn't shown a much greater return than school lands and any investment of public funds should be conservative.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Gov. Morrison thanked both sides for presenting their views.

"Thirty days ago I was opposed to the sale of school lands," he said. "But maybe I'm wrestling with futurity because you senators have enough votes to override a veto."

"I think so," replied Whitney, indicating 33 senators favor the bill. Thirty votes are required.

However, Morrison said he would veto any bill it went against the public interest adding "The land will be here longer than we or General Motors."

Four Killed; Riots Spread

. . . FIRE DAMAGE $10 MILLION

Los Angeles (P)—National Guardsmen with fixed bayonets marched Friday night into a wild Negro district no man's land where arsonists and looters were out of control and flying bullets killed both police and civilians.

Four persons, one a deputy sheriff, were reported slain by gunshot just before the first wave of 400 steel-helmeted troops rolled into, and quickly took over without incident the community of Watts.

The area, focal point of rioting for two days was quiet when the 2,000 Guardsmen arrived. All the action was farther north where thousands of Negroes raced through the darkness breaking into stores, looting them and igniting many

Pitched Battles
There were several pitched gun battles between police and demonstrators.

Sheriff's Deputy Ronald E. Ludlow, 27, was dead on arrival at a hospital of a bullet wound in the stomach. Three suspects were being questioned.

Police listed these other deaths:

A Negro looter shot dead at 28th and Central.

A demonstrator shot dead at 97th and Figueroa.

A Negro cause of death not determined, found dead at Manchester and Broadway.

Blocks To Miles
Nearly 1,000 police, sheriff's deputies and California highway patrolmen tried futilely throughout the day and night to check rioting over an area that expanded from a few blocks to several square miles.

In mid-afternoon groups running through the streets began looting, then burning, larger and larger stores—supermarkets, variety stores, even a department store.

By mid-evening there had been 30 major fires and merchandise thefts mounting into the millions, police said. The fire department in many instances either was unable or unwilling due to lack of police protection—to attempt to extinguish the flames.

The troopers, carrying M1 carbines with bayonets fixed, went in to help hundreds of police who have been outnumbered by thousands of rioters, and called for help.

Acting Gov. Glenn M. Anderson ordered the Guard mobilized Friday afternoon. Guardsmen were on the job within hours. There were no immediate reports of clashes between troops and rioters.

'Burn! Burn! Burn!'
It was a scene of wild frenzy with men, women and children chanting "Burn! Burn! Burn!"

Every few minutes someone shouted, "Let's go get 'em!"—their name for white men—and the mobs moved off.

A crowd gathered outside Oak Park Hospital and someone threw a stone through a window before police dispersed the group.

More than 900 policemen fought the rioters through the day and night resorting to suppress-and-run tactics while waiting for Guardsmen to move in.

Containment Fails
Police attempts to contain the Negroes in their South Side area failed. During the night came reports that rioting and looting was spreading northward, more than half-way toward the downtown Civic Center from the original riot zone around 116th Street. Police said an arsonist blaze flared up in an industrial district little more than a mile from the civic center.

Lt. Gov. Glenn M. Anderson flew here from Sacramento to authorize use of the National Guard after repeated appeals from Mayor Samuel Yorty and Police Chief William H. Parker.

The red glow of fires from burning buildings were like a series of second sunsets as the troops arrived. There were about 1,000 in the first contingent.

Olympic And Santee
An arson-started fire, one of scores of major blazes, was reported at Olympic Boulevard and Santee Street, only a mile from the downtown Civic Center.

Farther south, in the downtown area of the predominantly Negro Watts district, flames raged uncontrolled through a four-square-block area.

Lt. Gen. Roderick Hill, California adjutant general, told a news conference that the 1,100 troops had ammunition and would fire if they had to but "we hope to avoid hurting anyone."

He said five battalions, over 2,000 men, were called up for riot duty but almost half are being held in reserve.

Fire officials estimated a loss of $10 million from blazes in the strife-torn South Side, where street mobs stoned fire units attempting to get through.

Police reported a mob of 1,000 gathered at Broadway and Manchester, some two miles northwest of the area where the rioting originated.

Man, Woman Shot
A police ambulance driver rescued a man shot in the head and a woman shot in the back at 88th and Broadway. The man appeared "near dead," he said.

Other groups, from small gangs to packs of 100 or more, were abroad in other areas—climaxing daylong rioting with scores of structural fires and hundreds of looting.

The Watts area, where it all began last Wednesday night when a white officer arrested a Negro on drunken driving charges, was no man's land most of the day for whites. And during the day rioting radiated outward to other Negro districts.

A police spokesman said 34 officers and a fireman had been injured in the 24 hours and 75 citizens hurt. More than 150 Negroes had been jailed for looting, rioting and burning.

CAPITAL CITY TRAFFIC DEATH RATE LOWEST

Chicago (P)—The National Safety Council reported Friday that Lincoln, Neb., had the lowest traffic death rate for cities of its size during the first six months of 1965.

Lincoln's rate was 3 deaths per 10,000 registered vehicles. It is in the population class of 100,000 to 200,000 persons.

THE WEATHER

LINCOLN: Partly cloudy with 20% chance of thunderstorms Saturday afternoon and evening. Shifting winds and turning gradually cooler. High 90-95.

EAST AND CENTRAL NEBRASKA: Partly cloudy with thunderstorms affecting 20% of the area Saturday afternoon and evening. High 85-90 north central to lower 90s southeast.

First-Degree Murder Count Filed In Death

First-degree murder charges were filed Friday against 44-year-old Charles Baxter, in connection with the Thursday night slaying of his 41-year-old wife, Edna.

Baxter, dressed in work clothes, showed remorse as he entered the Lancaster County Court room accompanied by his court-appointed attorney, Robert Barlow.

Judge Ralph Slocum set Sept. 8, at 2 p. m., for the preliminary hearing requested by Baxter.

Mrs. Baxter was found dead in the back yard of her home at 848 N. 21st by police Thursday night, after two calls sent law enforcement officers to the scene.

Douglas said Mrs. Baxter had been dead only a few minutes before police arrived. He said Baxter signed a statement concerning the slaying of his wife about 6 a. m. Friday.

Douglas said that apparently one of the woman's five children watched the killing as had been reported earlier.

Lincoln Trainmen See Flying Saucer

By RICHARD BUDIG
Star Staff Writer

A saucer-shaped unidentified flying object, sporting a steel-gray hull and twinkling lights, hovered for about three minutes over a Lincoln train crew near Weeping Water Thursday night.

"And we were all stone-cold sober," Don Huff, 19, now of Lincoln and formerly of Atchison, Kan., said. Huff is a brakeman for the Missouri-Pacific Railroad.

"It came out of the north," he said, passed about two miles in front of the train, went south a little way toward the hills and then returned and hovered. Huff estimated its altitude at about one mile.

Others on the work train—which was traveling about 10 miles an hour—were Aca Butler, Lincoln, the conductor, George Barton, Lincoln, the engineer, and R. D. Rue, Falls City, the fireman.

Saw it First
Rue saw the object first and called it to the attention of Barton and Huff. Butler was riding at the rear of the train. However, he told others he also saw the object.

"After hovering for a time, the thing dipped down, as if taking a look at us," Huff said, adding that he could see the top of the craft when it dipped.

"I looked for outlines of a doorway or some kind of hatch but couldn't see any," he said.

No Smoke Trail
The outer rim of the craft was equipped with several lights that blinked steadily in a clock-wise pattern. It left no smoke trail and had no visible means of propulsion.

"It was about 8 p. m.—between night and day," Huff noted.

The sun had just gone down and the moon was not yet up. As a sliver of the moon appeared over the top of the hills in the south, the machine shut off its lights, zoomed straight up and sped out of sight toward the moon, according to Huff.

"At first we thought it was a dirigible. But when it tipped, we changed our minds."

Huff lives at the Sam Lawrence Hotel. He has been in Lincoln less than two weeks.

The text of the Navy announcement:

"The Secretary of the Navy has involuntarily extended all enlistments of Navy and Marine Corps personnel for a period of four months. The effective date of application for U.S. Marine Corps enlisted men is Aug. 20. Effective date of application for navy enlisted personnel is Sept. 15. Wagner Risks War Of Water

... WITH PHILADELPHIA

Fires Set Following Arrests

Springfield, Mass. (UPI) — Two Negro youths hurled bricks, jugs of gasoline and flaming torches into two white-owned stores Friday night after police arrested 23 civil rights demonstrators on the steps of city hall.

Police said witnesses saw two youths drive up to the stores in the predominantly Negro Winchester Square area, smash plate glass windows and start the fires before roaring away in a car.

The incidents occurred during a drenching rain. Police began an intensive search for the pair, described as teen-agers.

The fires erupted only a few hours after helmeted police arrested singing demonstrators, both Negro and white, at city hall a mile and a half away.

One of the stores, a trading stamp redemption center managed by a white woman, was extensively damaged. The other, a neighborhood variety store with a white owner, received only minor damage.

Both fires were quickly brought under control.

Acting District Fire Chief Norris Quinn said he was about 400 yards from the Prudential Premium Co. store when he "saw a flash."

Other witnesses told police they saw two Negro youths drive up in a car, hurl bricks through three plate glass windows and toss a glass jug of gasoline inside.

Fifteen minutes later, other witnesses said they saw two youths smash the window of Howard's Market less than half a mile away, and start a fire in a similar manner.

Such a program, he said, invites a water famine in the nation's largest city.

"Let there be no war," Wagner pleaded, "but do not ask us to do the unaskable."

The mayor told a presidential water crisis task force:

"With all our conservation methods, more stringent by far than those of any other locality in the country, we would confront the danger of a water famine if we were to continue the releases."

Under a 1954 U.S. Supreme Court order, during times of drought, New York has been releasing 200 million gallons of fresh water a day from its reservoirs into the Delaware River.

The object is to prevent salt water from backing up into the water supplies of Philadelphia and Camden, N.J.

The Supreme Court order expires Sept. 10 and Wagner has said the city then will halt releases. New York City's water supply stands at 207.1 billion gallons, or 43.5% of capacity. The city normally uses over a billion gallons a day.

Interior Secretary Stewart Udall, heading President Johnson's water crisis task force of 16 members, came here with a warning that New York and Philadelphia are on a "collision" course over water needs. He hopes to come up with some recommendations to abate the crisis.

In a public hearing at city hall, Wagner told the task force:

"We want to cooperate, we want to help Philadelphia. We would like to see the Tocks Dam completed. We would like to see Philadelphia's intake move upstream..."

"We cannot, however, agree to the continued sacrifice of 200 million gallons per day at the expense of 12 million human beings here in New York City and in the area served by our water supply."

New York City has placed numerous restrictions on the use of water, the latest being the limiting of the use of water-consuming air conditioning units in office buildings, hotels and apartments.

Police Were Warned 'Ghetto' Ripe For Riot

Los Angeles (AP) — Civil rights workers call Watts the "black ghetto."

They warned police it was ready for a riot: segregated, overcrowded, plagued by unemployment, its people largely distrustful of police.

Then came the catalyst: a week of sweltering temperatures.

Since Sunday the mercury in the grimy, sprawling suburb had risen each day past the 90-degree mark.

When the first riot came Wednesday night, it followed an attempt by police to arrest a drunken driving suspect.

Thursday night riots came again. Why? This time there was no one incident anyone could blame — only the tensions social workers had long reported:

Segregation: 98% of Watts is Negro.

Crowding: Watts has 27.3 persons per acre, compared with a county average of 7.4.

Unemployment: Each month 1,000 Negroes come to Los Angeles, most to Watts, the city's largest pocket of Negro population. Many are jobless.

Civic blight: Most of the buildings in Watts date to past decades when the area was still white. Many stores stand empty.

Hatred of police: From the 77th Street police station the City of Los Angeles enforces laws in Watts with 205 men—five of them Negroes. Civil rights workers have compared the station to the headquarters of "an occupying power."

Breakdown Of Negro Family Danger-Laden

Washington (UPI) — A confidential Labor Department report says the breakdown of Negro family life in the nation's largest cities may trigger a new racial crisis.

The report, circulated among U.S. officials since last spring, proposes a widespread government attack on problems confronting urban Negroes.

It traces present conditions back to the slave origins of American Negroes and the "unimaginable mistreatment" they have received for 300 years.

The report says a Negro middle class has managed to emerge despite these hardships, but that signs point to disintegration of family life for millions of unskilled, poorly educated Negro city dwellers.

The report gives these statistics on Negro family life——In cities, nearly one-fourth of Negro women who have been married now are divorced or separated. The rate for white women is 7.9%.

—Nearly one out of every four Negro babies born today is illegitimate. The Negro illegitimacy rate—23.6%—compares to 3.0% for whites.

—More than half of all Negro children are helped by federal-state aid to dependent children (ADC). This compares to 8% of white children.

—The birth rate for Negroes is 40% higher than for whites, and the report says that Negroes will make up one-eighth of the U.S. population by 1972.

The report also noted the high unemployment rate for Negroes — about double that for whites — and suggests that more jobs would alleviate the family breakdown.

150 Battle Chicago Rioters; 24 Hurt, 75 Arrested

Chicago (AP) — Some 150 policemen battled rioters in a Negro neighborhood Friday night. About 24 persons were injured and as many as 75 were arrested.

What began as a street-corner civil rights rally swelled into a looting, bottle-tossing mob after a white, off-duty policeman in civilian clothes was slashed by an angry crowd of Negroes.

Police said 18 officers were injured. Six were taken to a hospital for first aid, along with six civilians.

Smashed Windows

Looters smashed nearly every window of stores in a business district several blocks from where the policeman was slashed. At least two persons were arrested for looting, and police said one of them was carrying six pairs of women's shoes.

The mob formed Friday night after the slashing of white policeman Robert Wiens, 25, who was on his way to work and in civilian clothes. A crowd of Negroes attacked Wiens as he stepped from his auto.

Police broke up the crowd surrounding Wiens, who was led to a nearby hospital with blood streaming from his face.

A rally was in progress a block away. The 100-odd listeners soon swelled to 300, roaring "revenge!" and "fight!" The speaker, Lawrence Landry, organizer of the rights group ACT, did not directly advocate violence in his speech.

Picture Complicated

Fires complicated the picture. Eight alarms were sounded in the area between 8 and 9 p.m., three involving burning autos and three involving small fires in buildings. At least one of the other alarms was false.

It was the second night of rioting in the Fillmore police district on the West Side. A mob gathered Thursday night to hurl bottles and fire bombs at a fire station after a 20-year old negro woman was accidentally killed.

Yorty Says 'Anarchy' Not Racial

San Francisco (UPI) — Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty said Friday the disturbance in his city was "not really a race riot."

Yorty said 13% of Los Angeles' population is Negro and "most of them deplore the situation as well as I." He said only an "infinitesimal part" of the Negro community was causing the trouble.

In a luncheon talk before the Commonwealth Club here, Yorty called the rioting "anarchy" and said it must stop.

"The rioters indiscriminately attack both Caucasians and Negroes, they attack neighbors without cause," he said. He has confidence in his police department but that military help was needed because the heavy demands in the riot area have stripped the rest of the city of effective law enforcement.

Yorty described the Watts area where the trouble is occurring as suffering from serious problems, with "young people roaming the streets, many without jobs, many from the South where the police were their enemy."

First Income Tax Petitions Filed By Mail

The first circulated petitions in a referendum drive seeking to place the question of a state income tax on the 1966 general election ballot were filed by mail in the secretary of state's office Friday.

The only other petition filed to date was one that Scotts-bluff Sen. Terry Carpenter signed himself and turned in. The first circulated ones to be filed were circulated by Percy Armstrong in Lincoln County.

Each of the two petitions filed bears the names of 20 North Platte residents. Now on file with the secretary of state are 41 signatures.

The referendum drive seeks to place on the November, 1966, ballot the question of repealing LB787 recently passed by the Legislature.

LB787 provides that a flat-rate state income tax be initiated Jan. 1, 1967.

preliminary investigation indicated that Tillerman Lloyd Tuttle was in the shower when the fire alarm sounded. He jumped into his clothes, but did not slide down the brass pole because his body was wet and his clothing damp. Capt. Wagner Risks War Of Water

... WITH PHILADELPHIA

New York (AP) — Democrat Mayor Robert F. Wagner, at the risk of a water war with Philadelphia, stood firm Friday against continued release of New York City's precious supplies into the Delaware River.

Such a program, he said, invites a water famine in the nation's largest city.

"Let there be no war," Wagner pleaded, "but do not ask us to do the unaskable."

The mayor told a presidential water crisis task force:

accidentally killed.

The woman, Dessie Mae Williams, was crushed by a falling sign knocked from its moorings by a fire truck.

The incident attracted a crowd, many of them Negro teen-agers who flung stones and bottles at the fire house as they milled and shouted for several hours. Police arrested 16 of the demonstrators.

A district fire official said

preliminary investigation indicated that Tillerman Lloyd Tuttle was in the shower when the fire alarm sounded. He jumped into his clothes, but did not slide down the brass pole because his body was wet and his clothing damp.

Capt. Wesley Wieringa apparently confused the sound of air brake release with the buzzer with which the tillerman signals that he is in

Fires Set Following Arrests

Springfield, Mass. (UPI) — Two Negro youths hurled bricks, jugs of gasoline and flaming torches into two white-owned stores Friday night after police arrested 23 civil rights demonstrators on the steps of city hall.

Police said witnesses saw two youths drive up to the stores in the predominantly Negro Winchester Square area, smash plate glass windows and start the fires before roaring away in a car.

The incidents occurred during a drenching rain.

Police began an intensive search for the pair, described as teen-agers.

The fires erupted only a few hours after helmeted police arrested singing demonstrators, both Negro and white, at city hall a mile and a half away.

One of the stores, a trading stamp redemption center managed by a white woman, was extensively damaged. The other, a neighborhood variety store with a white owner, received only minor damage.

Both fires were quickly brought under control.

Acting District Fire Chief Norris Quinn said he was about 400 yards from the Prudential Premium Co. store when he "saw a flash."

Other witnesses told police they saw two Negro youths drive up in a car, hurl bricks through three plate glass windows and toss a glass jug of gasoline inside.

Fifteen minutes later, other witnesses said they saw two youths smash the window of Howard's Market less than half a mile away, and start a fire in a similar manner.

Brazzaville, Congo, Embassy Is Closed By United States

Washington (UPI) — The United States announced Friday it was closing its embassy in Brazzaville, capital of the former French Congo, because of "mistreatment" of American officials there.

The Brazzaville government quickly responded by closing its embassy in Washington. It informed the State Department that Charge d'Affaires Andre Loufoua and his staff of about four were going to New York to join the Congo Republic's mission to the United Nations.

Withdrawal of diplomatic and consular officers from each country does not constitute a full break in diplomatic relations.

The department said it would be willing to consider resuming diplomatic representation if the Congo government gave assurance of effective steps to protect U.S. official rights.

The department said there had been three cases of "serious mistreatment" of American personnel by Congolese authorities in the past nine months. U.S. requests for an explanation and for remedial action brought no response, officials said.

The Brazzaville Congo, once part of French Equatorial Africa, is located just west of the former Belgian Congo, whose capital is Leopoldville. Both call themselves "Republic of The Congo." U.S. aid to Brazzaville, which ran less than $1 million a year, was suspended nine months ago.

Oxbow Club's Angus Win Again

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau
Nelson — They looked like peas in a pod, but these were two black, even for black-eyed peas.

All purples and blues they were too, the quintet of angus judged best "Club group of five" in the 90th annual Nuckolls County Fair. The title in the new competition went this second year to the Oxbow 4-H Club, north of Nelson.

"This is one of the finest events of any show," opined judge Harold Stevens, jovial

Dawson County agent. "In putting together the most uniform group possible it takes real co-operation and give-and-take."

Beef leader Jim Watts had a couple of extra reasons to glow over Oxbow, son Carl and Jimmie showing two of the five calves. Brothers Scott and Craig Oltmans and Dan Karmazin shared in the pride, along with over-all club leader
Mrs. Dale Adamson.

Grand Champ Award
Carl's angus also took title to the beef grand champion award, Jerry Williams of Nora showing a heretofore reserve honors. Other breed champions included Bill Nelson of Superior, shorthorns;

and Perry Elting of Edgar, cross.

County Agent Lawrence
Tremain noted that such club competitions stir interest in exhibits — and interest there is at Nelson's fair. FFA and 4-H livestock entries totalled about 250 this year, with 82 beaves and close to 50 horses accounting for the most.

The Superior Chamber of Commerce also helped things along with cash awards. Manager Vern McBroom noted that this year's total neared a record.

All Faiths' Festival Far from this conventional county fair aspect was another highlight, an All Faiths' Festival. Dr. Gerald Lawson, formerly of Superior, and now an associate professor of music, was summoned from San Fernando Valley State College in California to direct the 100 boy chorus.

"Fifteen church choirs were represented, and the members worked all summer on the program," said L. J. Wehrman, fair board president.

"We made a special effort to present something different, and I hope, pleasing."

An attendance of nearly 1, 000 indicated that the performance was as indeed successful as it was different for a fair. Bach and Mendelssohn were among the ambitious works, guest soloist Mrs.
Robert Ley of Grand Island and Thomas Cople of Hastings adding to the quality.

The traditional livestock parade and style revue jerked the grandstand back to the conventional Thursday night.

'65 Crop Output Likely Highest Since '62

The State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics said Friday Nebraska crop production this year apparently will be the highest since 1962.

The division said continued rain during July, along with cool weather, resulted in rapid growth and plant development. The division said corn yield per acre is expected to be a record high, with sorghum grain and soybean production also expected to hit record levels.

The outlook:

Corn—The current crop is 33 million bushels above last year's production of 214 million bushels. The 66 bushel yield of corn for grain is a record high and exceeds the previous record in 1962 by five and a half bushels. About three-fourths of the crop was tasseled by the first of August, slightly ahead of schedule.

Winter Wheat — Production is estimated at 57.9 million bushels, a reduction of about 8.7 million bushels from last month's estimate because of black stem rust. At the end of July, about 30% of the harvest was still not completed in the Panhandle. The crop is 15.9 million bushels short of last year's production, and the yield per acre is five bushels below the 1964 yield.

Oats — Production is estimated at 27.4 million bushels, compared with 22.9 bushels a year ago. The average yield of 38 bushels per acre is the highest in recent years.

Barley—The crop will total 1.6 million bushels, the smallest production since 1915, but the yield per acre of 30 bushels will be the highest yield average since 1957.

Rye—Production totaled 1.6 million bushels this year, compared with 2.2 million last year. The yield per acre was slightly improved.

Sorghum Grain—Production is expected to total 149 million bushels, a sharp increase from last year's 93 million total.
The previous record production was 44 million bushels in 1963. The crop has made very good growth and was about 40% headed by the first of this month.

Soybeans—A record crop of 18.7 million bushels is predicted, topping last year's record 11.4 million bushels. The yield per acre will be 27 bushels, as compared to a 23 bushel average in 1964.

Hay—Production of all hay this year probably will total seven million tons, topping last year's 6.1 million tons.

Gun Incident Is Close Call At Bus Depot

A man with a .45—a .45
BB-gun, that is—caused some tense moments at the Continental Trailways Bus Depot
Friday night.

It started when a young woman heading for North Carolina, a passenger from a New York City-bound bus, complained to police Sgt. Edwin Kringel that a young male passenger on the bus had a gun and had threatened to shoot her.

Sgt. Kringel, to avoid arousing suspicion if the man did have a gun, radioed headquarters for plainclothes men who could board the bus relatively unnoticed.

Capt. Robert Sawdon was with him a block of the station and boarded the bus first, wearing street clothes. He found the young man with a gun in a paper sack, and said it looked so realistic he thought at first that it was real.

The man, bound for Chicago, was escorted from the bus and searched at the station. By now, five officers had answered the call.

Police, after checking out the man thoroughly, lectured both the man and the woman and put them back on the bus.

Capt. Sawdon said officers are always prepared for the worst when such incidents occur. He said, "It just might have been one of the top ten."

Two More Die
In Car Crashes
On State's Roads

By United Press International Traffic accidents near Hubbard and Gering Thursday claimed two lives.

The deaths boosted the 1965
Nebraska fatality count to 205, compared with 228 one year ago.

Magrarity Lopez, 23, Ger-ing, was killed shortly before midnight when the pickup he was driving overturned on a county road two miles south of Gering. He was alone.

The Nebraska Highway Patrol said the vehicle rolled into a watery ditch.

Timothy Watkins, 13, Hubbard, died when his bicycle veered into the path of a semi-trailer truck one mile west of Hubbard on Highway 35.

Timothy, one of 13 children of Mr. and Mrs. Hollas W.
Watkins Jr., was riding with a companion.

Louis Hoffman, 35, Westfield, Iowa, the trucker, said he blew his horn as he neared the boys. Timothy's bike struck the truck between the cab and the trailer.

Pair Escape Injury In Big Omaha Blaze

Omaha (UPI)—Two people escaped injury in a two-alarm fire Friday afternoon in the Midwest Asbestos Co. in the Omaha warehouse district.

The fire blazed out of control and dense black smoke poured from the four-story brick structure, at times completely hiding the building.

Mrs. Delores Schutt was working in the office on the first floor when she smelled smoke and saw it coming through a ventilator.

She ran to the warehouse section behind the office to call Ed Proplesh, a co-worker, to get out. Smoke billowed out of the warehouse door but both escaped to safety.

Oxbow Club's Angus Win Again

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau
Nelson — They looked like peas in a pod, but these were too black, even for black-eyed peas.
All purples and blues they were too, the quintet of angus judged best "Club group of five" in the 90th annual Nuckolls County Fair. The title in the new competition went this second year to the Oxbow 4-H Club, north of Nelson.
"This is one of the finest events of any show," opined judge Harold Stevens, jovial

Dawson County agent. "In putting together the most uniform group possible it takes real co-operation and give-and-take."
Beef leader Jim Watts had a couple of extra reasons to glow over Oxbow, son Carl and Jimmie showing two of the five calves. Brothers Scott and Craig Oltmans and Dan Karmazin shared in the pride, along with over-all club leader Mrs. Dale Adamson.
Grand Champ Award
Carl's angus also took title to the beef grand champion award, Jerry Williams of Nora showing a hereford for reserve honors. Other breed champions included Bill Nelson of Superior, shorthorns; and Perry Elting of Edgar, cross.

County Agent Lawrence Tremain noted that such club competitions stir interest in exhibits — and interest there is at Nelson's fair. FFA and 4-H livestock entries totalled about 250 this year, with 82 beeves and close to 50 horses accounting for the most.
The Superior Chamber of Commerce also helped things along with cash awards. Manager Vern McBroom noted that this year's total neared a record.

All Faiths' Festival
Far from this conventional county fair aspect was another highlight, an All Faiths' Festival. Dr. Gerald Lawson, formerly of Superior, and now an associate professor of music, was summoned from San Fernando Valley State College in California to direct the 100 boy chorus.
"Fifteen church choirs were represented, and the members worked all summer on the program," said L. J. Wehrman, fair board president.
"We made a special effort to present something different, and I hope, pleasing."

An attendance of nearly 1,000 indicated that the performance was as indeed successful as it was different for a fair. Bach and Mendelssohn were among the ambitious works, guest soloist Mrs. Robert Ley of Grand Island and Thomas Cople of Hastings adding to the quality.
The traditional livestock parade and style revue jerked the grandstand back to the conventional Thursday night. Championship rassing attracted fairgoers in Friday's finale.

Guardsmen Will Leave Saturday For Camp Sites

More than 600 trucks and trailers will rumble north and west Saturday carrying some 2,050 Nebraska National Guardsmen and their gear to summer camp.

Nebraska's 67th infantry brigade will head for Camp Ripley, Minn. Five hundred artillerymen from western Nebraskans will go to Camp Guernsey, Wyo. Both groups will train for two weeks.

Guardsmen will sleep on the ground Saturday night at bivouac points between their hometowns and camp sites.

The Minnesota-bound guardsmen will arrive at their destination Sunday afternoon, spend the night in the cantonment area, and push out early Monday morning for a four-day stint in the field. Pup tents and cold water shaves will be the rule until they return to the cantonment area Friday for the traditional Governor's Day retreat parade.

Joining the Nebraska guardsmen at Camp Ripley will be 168 Army reservists. At Camp Guernsey 86 reservists will train with the Nebraska Guard unit.

Dworak Says Foreclosure Action 'Political'

By The Associated Press
An Ord savings and loan association has filed a foreclosure action against State Tax Commissioner George J. Dworak and his wife alleging, among other things, that the Dworaks have failed to keep up tax payments on Ord business property.
In Lincoln, Dworak said

"personal, political pressure" is being brought on him because of his stand on equalizing property values for tax purposes in the state.
Dworak said information contained in the petition is erroneous.

The petition filed by Protective Savings and Loan Association also names Raymond Shotkoski and his wife Lucille as defendants. They are tenants and managing the Hotel Ord and Downtown Motel for the Dworaks.

The petition says Protective issued Dworaks a promissory note for $45,000 on June 13, 1963, payable in monthly installments of $289.96 and also the sum of $200.95 to pay taxes, special assessments and insurance on Ord property.

Taxes Said Unpaid
The petition says the Dworaks have made no payments since Sept. 1, 1964, and that "the last half of 1964 taxes have not been paid." It said the plaintiffs will have to advance $282.53 for the unpaid taxes.
Protective is asking foreclosure of its mortgage. Dworak said his attorney is in the process of working out a settlement which will include refinancing.

Firemen poured water on the roof after the blaze was brought under control for fear the weakened brick wall would collapse.

According to Fire Chief Martin Dineen, "the fire was fully involved when we got here." At first report it was believed there were eight persons in the warehouse at the time of the fire.

Dineen said Witherspoon "counted heads" to determine if all were out. There was no immediate estimate of damage.

Mountain Of Taxes

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Taxes at the state level, now firm and final as a result of legislative and administrative acts, constitute a mountain that the average citizen could never climb. Maybe it would be best for such citizen simply to pay his taxes and forget about it all. And yet, this is not the epitome of good citizenship nor the height of satisfaction.

When a man pays out his money, he sort of wants to know where it is going. He likes to be able to add things up and account for this and that. Are things costing him more these days or less?

Taxes at the state level will be costing him more, but how much? At first glance it looks as if the tax hike will be $12,404.163 or a tax of $2.59 against each $1,000 of assessed property valuation. The state has six separate mill levies which are, for 1965-66, 7.43 mills for the general fund, 3.20 mills for the special building fund, .30 mill for the state office building fund, .50 for the teacher retirement fund, .10 for the agricultural products research fund and .30 for the state parks fund.

All those levies add up to 11.73 mills or $11.73 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. For the 1964-65 year just ended, that levy was 9.14 mills or $9.14 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

This is the tax that people generally hear about and know about. It constitutes the total property tax levy of the tax but there are still a lot of other taxes. In direct consumer-paid taxes, Nebraskans will pay $9,391,000 more to the state in 1965-66 than they did in 1964-65. This will include $6 million in an extra cent per pack of cigarette taxes and $3,391,000 in an extra one-half cent per gallon in gasoline taxes.

These last two are not property taxes but they merely go to reduce the amount of the property tax. They are still paid for by the people of Nebraska and if we didn't have them, then the property tax would be just that much higher. Thus, the total tax increase for the state in 1965-66 will be $21,795,163 which would probably be equivalent to about a 5 mill levy. Additionally, the state will get in 1965-66 an estimated $30,796,031 in income from sources other than taxes and special levies. This includes the regular, non-earmarked cigarette tax income of $9,200,000, the intangible tax, liquor taxes, grain tax, income from investments and various other fees, licenses, etc.

To compare this figure with a year ago is next to impossible and is impossible without a major accounting effort. This is because the non-property tax income report for 1965-66 includes a lot of items that were not there last year. Last year they were found in various cash funds within the departments but have been placed in the general fund account this year for better control by the Legislature. The funds transferred from cash to general fund accounts total in the neighborhood of $15 million.

Without those cash funds, this source of income to the state last year amounted to $24.7 million. Thus, the cash funds transferred over are about equal to the increase of $16 million shown in this category of income for the new year. Therefore, it would seem that no increases of any substance are anticipated in these various forms of income.

This leaves the citizen facing the next tax increase of $21.7 million which was mentioned earlier. As Gov. Frank Morrison has pointed out, this will leave Nebraska still in an enviable position insofar as comparisons with other states are concerned.

Nebraska has ranked at the bottom of the list in taxes for state government per capita, our people paying an average less than the people of any other state. We will maintain this position or slip very little in the coming year. At the same time, the state will make substantial progress in a number of fields. Municipalities will find good use for the extra gasoline tax income they will get, as will counties. We will have more funds than before for state parks and for construction of access roads to state recreation areas. We will be able to look forward to completion of the state education television network.

We will see the beginning of a program of growth and improvement at the University of Nebraska, a strengthened State Highway Patrol, an expansion of vocational education and many other advancements. In total, it would seem that the taxpayer has not been overburdened and the Legislature has done a commendable job of facing the responsibilities placed upon it at the beginning of its session.

A Loss To The State

The death of C. Petrus Peterson brings to an end a long career of dedication to the cause of all human welfare. Mr. Peterson was the son of Swedish immigrants, a product of rural Nebraska, and never lost sight of the fact that life consists of a responsibility.

This is the responsibility to make a contribution to the world beyond the satisfaction of personal needs and desires. This Mr. Peterson did in serving as a member of the Nebraska Legislature and as a pioneering spirit in the pursuit of conservation of natural resources.

Many have been the times that Mr. Peterson stumped the state in behalf of projects of flood control, power development and land stabilization, leading to each of them the power of his oratory and the reservoir of understanding that was his.

He was a man of simple but sincere background and this implanted within him an idealism he never lost. His many efforts also earned him the Builder Award of the University of Nebraska, the highest non-academic honor bestowed by that institution.

Despite his many efforts toward improvement of this state, he was a man who made no enemies. He was well known as a man who respected the views of others, who looked always for a path that all interests might follow with reasonable harmony. He was a master of compromise while never surrendering the high principles in which he believed.

His cause was the cause of all mankind and the state shall long remember and greatly miss him.

Safe From Chess

State Department bureaucracy at times can be the most senseless one can find.

Recently it refused a passport authorization to Bobby Fisher who wished to go to Cuba to play competitive chess in the Capablanca Memorial tournament in Havana.

We reflect at this juncture that the same State Department will happily consent to shipping an entire track team to Russia. It will allow musicians to go anywhere behind the Iron Curtain they can. But a young chess player can't go to Cuba.

We can't imagine a lone chess player damaging either Cuba or the United States or altering international relations. And chess players don't move quickly enough to take part in revolutions. And their particular field of skill is neither secret or new.

We doubt that any individual, alone, in the State Department would have been stupid enough to stop a harmless game of chess, but a bureau develops a way of life its own, one governed by poor rules which every employee must apply.

The State Department since World War II has maintained an odd determination to safeguard national security. In terms of Cuba it will permit newsmen to go there, but sets up a barrier against school teachers, artists and plain Americans. If a school teacher would get wrong ideas in Cuba he or she couldn't communicate them to more than 30 young people a year, an artist to even fewer. But a corrupted newsmen could spread his doctrines to millions. Yet he can go and teachers and artists can't.

What kind of sense is that?

That Shiny, Slick 27½%

From The St. Louis Post-Dispatch

Internal dissension in the oil industry over imports of the product may just possibly do what common sense for two decades has been unable to do, and scale down the 27½ per cent oil depletion allowance in the federal tax laws. If so, nobody will profit but the country's taxpayers who are carrying the well over $200,000,000 burden the allowance removes from oil and mining interests.

The executive committee of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association has asked Congress to re-examine the application of the allowance to foreign production, which enables competitors of its members to bring lower-cost foreign oil onto the United States market. A staff memorandum of the group says there is no reason why the foreign depletion allowance should not be scaled "sharply downward." Pressure for "ever-higher imports" would thereby be reduced, it said.

Thus a crack appears in the united front always considered essential to maintaining the tax advantage which permits owners of oil and gas wells an annual income-tax deduction equal to 27½ per cent of the gross income from each property. It is 18 years since the Secretary of the Treasury, then Henry Morgenthau, called this allowance "the most glaring loophole" in the tax laws. President Truman said he knew of "no loophole in the tax laws so inequitable." The independents now declare the allowance on foreign production actually defeats the objective of maintaining a healthy home producing industry so what argument remains against reducing it wherever it applies?

Objecting Priest Was Put To Death

WASHINGTON — In the course of mass-murdering Dominican prisoners during the recent revolution, the American-backed dictatorship of Gen. Antonio Imbert also murdered a Canadian Catholic priest.

This column has obtained a copy of this unpublished report which tells how Father James Arthur MacKinnon was killed because he "protested the mass arrests in a sermon from his pulpit and also before the central authorities."

"The priest's body shows wounds from at least two different weapons; evidence of strong pressure on the neck and a profound concussion from a blow in the thoracic region. His clothing, perforated by bullets, shows, under ultra-violet rays, the impregnation of powder, indicating that some of the shots were made at close range."

The OAS report, prepared by three expert criminologists from Chile, Mexico and Peru, went into great detail regarding the manner in which Gen. Imbert's troops had arrested several thousand civilians, then transported them to other jails. En route they were shot.

The OAS commission was able to locate only a few of the bodies, and was not able to arrive at any conclusions regarding the number of political prisoners shot. However, La Victoria prison, the most important under the administration of Gen. Imbert, had its prison population reduced from 3,000 to 500.

Let's take a look at the remarkable 1965 crop of freshman state senators and their influence on the best Nebraska Legislature in modern times.

Best, we say, because it faced the issues and made decisions.

Extent of the influence of freshman lawmakers: considerable, but not dominating.

A comparison between the voting records of first-term senators and those of more experience indicated that, as blocs, they voted very closely alike.

Generally speaking, the frosh crop gave stronger support to major change than did veteran senators, but tended to vote more conservatively on spending measures and tax hikes.

Perhaps the three most stunning accomplishments of the 1965 Legislature, in terms of broad impact, future effect and reversal of tradition, were decisions to adopt a state income tax, to reorganize public power districts and to sell the state school lands.

Freshman senators gave stronger support to each of those three bills than did the veterans. But, in neither of the three did the 22 freshman votes turn the tide of decision.

First-year senators (including Stan Matzke of Milford, who served in previous sessions in the 1940s), voted 12-10 for the income tax. Veterans voted 14-13.

Freshmen supported power reorganization on an 18-2 count, compared to 20-5 by the veterans.

On the school lands issue, freshmen voted 13-4 while senators of senior station lined up 17-8.

The frosh class also gave stronger support to a bill effecting the greatest reorganization of state government in decades, the measure creating a Department of Administrative Services. Frosh: 19-2; veterans 21-6.

But on major spending and tax issues, it was the 27 veterans who provided the most support.

The big education-welfare-institutions budget bill and the six-year capital construction program won 23-3 backing from the veterans while, in each case, freshman senators voted 16-6.

Veterans also produced more support for tax increases. Scores: gas tax hike, veterans 19-8, freshmen 14-8; cigarette tax boost, veterans 24-3, freshmen 17-5; removal of the $200 exemption for household goods, veterans 16-7, freshmen 13-7.

Neither frosh nor veteran cast a dissenting vote against increases in the pari-mutuel tax or the beer levy.

On the two spending bills involving the heated trade school issue, again the veteran senators turned out to be the more liberal spenders.

The trade school score: $500,000 in state assistance for area schools, veterans 20-5, freshmen 11-8; a new state school at Sidney, veterans 14-5, frosh 12-6.

As in every such comparison, there are exceptions. Freshmen gave stronger support (19-2) to the second major budget bill funding 53 state agencies than did the veterans (21-5).

And, the vets were more inclined to the major changes involved in the proposal to create educational service units than were the first-termers. Vets: 16-9. Frosh: 9-8.

Within the 22-senator freshman class, there are wide differences of philosophy which emerged in individual voting on major issues of change, spending and taxation.

On the 15 bills previously mentioned, one freshman legislator—H. C. Crandall of Curtis—voted for all 15.

None of the measures received a nay vote from either C. W. Holmquist of Oakland or Fred Carstens of Beatrice, both of whom show a 12-0 score. Neither senator was recorded on final reading balloting on three of the proposals.

Matzke and Lester Harsh of Bartley supported all of the bills except the gas tax hike. Their score: 14-1.

Ramey Whitney counted a 13-1 record, with only opposition directed at the measure providing state aid for area trade schools.

Calista Cooper Hughes had a 12-1 score, her only dissent being applied to the gas tax boost.

Others who supported the mass of those major bills: Hal Bauer of Lincoln, John Knight of Lincoln, Rudolf Kokes of Ord, all 13-2; Elmer Walwey of Emerson, 12-3; Pat Moulton of Omaha, 11-3; and Rick Budd of Nebraska City, 11-4.

The middle echelon: S. H. Brauer Sr. of Norfolk, 10-5; Herb Nore of Genoa and Henry Pedersen Jr. of Omaha, 8-5; Ira Paine of Grand Island, 8-6; Chet Paxton of Theford, Richard Proud of Omaha and William Wylie of Elgin, 8-7; and Harold Moylan of Omaha, 4-4.

Champion dissenter: Clifton Batchelder of Omaha, 5-8.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Brasilia Arises On The High Plains

BRASILIA, Brazil — It has the look of a magician's fabulous trick conjured out of the dark red earth of the planalto (high plains). Scrub waste 10 years ago, Brasilia is today a capital with perhaps the most distinguished contemporary architecture in the West, a city with its suburbs of 200,000.

What the "revolutionary" government of President Humberto Castello Branco is trying to do in two and a half years also partakes of something of the magical. The orgy of corruption and demagoguery under Joao Goulart had brought this nation of 84 million close to total breakdown in April, 1963. Anarchy and mob rule were just ahead as the printing presses poured out money with less and less value each day.

In a characteristically bloodless Brazilian coup, the military imposed order. They chose a retired military man of unquestioned integrity to be president as Goulart fled the country. And the congress, having gone through certain constitutional gyrations, voted Castello Branco into the office.

The president lists three goals for what he says must be his transitional service. They are, first, checking the runaway inflation; second, getting production started again, and, third, strengthening the democratic process in Brazil.

In the first 16 months, he is still a long way from these goals, and that is one reason the president is under increasing pressure to agree to stay on in the office—by means of another congressional vote—beyond the elections due in October, 1966.

But when Castello Branco says the great danger to democracy in Latin America is personal power, he speaks not only the historic truth but with what seems every evidence of sincerity. He is pushing an electoral law that will reduce the number of parties from 13, most of them irresponsible splinters, to four or five. Thereby, he hopes to cut out some of the wilder eccentricities of Brazilian politics.

If he succeeds in handing over power to a duly-elected president, Castello Branco will have done what for a military man in this part of the hemisphere is like squaring the circle. Yet this short, thick-set, almost shy retired field marshal, who gives careful, precise answers to political questions, seems determined to do just that. Those observing him in the president believe his "no" means "no" and that he will not be persuaded to stay in power.

However, bloodless, the omelet of the revolution was not made without breaking eggs. Several thousand suspected communists or communist-leaning leftists were jailed or forced into exile. Some are still in jail, and military courts of intervention still function. At least one state governor was removed by the central government.

President Castello Branco says firmly that in the transitional period, these same restraints will be applied. He is sensitive to the charge that his is a military regime, pointing to his own determined effort to restore orderly representative government.

The ultimate test will lie not so much in whether Brazil achieves a fully democracy but whether out of this transition can come a restored economy and at least relative freedom of political choice. Transposing the terms of Western democracy on a turbulent Latin nation only just emerging from a horrendous ordeal of misgovernment is slightly unreasonable. The curse of corruption and lack of administrative capacity hangs over a people struggling with some beginning success to develop a great undeveloped country.

A singular irony is that the initiator of Brasilia is in voluntary exile in Paris, stripped for 10 years of his civil rights on a charge of corruption. Juscelino Kubitschek began in 1956, when he was president, to build a capital, as the constitution of 1891 provided, in the center of the country rather than in Rio de Janeiro. No highways, no railroads, nothing; marble and steel girders flown in airplanes—this was the drive behind the new city as it came off the drawing boards of Oscar Niemeyer and Brazil's other brilliant architects. The cost—it must have totaled several billion dollars—contributed to the inflation that reached a wild climax a few years later under Goulart.

"But at least," the average Brazilian is inclined to say, "he (Kubitschek) did something for us." The growth rate under Kubitschek was 6 to 7 percent a year. There is also popular agreement that if he could be a candidate next year, he would sweep the country.

In the dry air and sharp sunlight of the plateau, the new government buildings seem at times suspended against the blue sky, so much are they a part of the landscape.

Mountain Of Taxes

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Taxes at the state level, now firm and final as a result of legislative and administrative acts, constitute a mountain that the average citizen could never climb. Maybe it would be best for such citizen simply to pay his taxes and forget about it all. And yet, this is not the epitome of good citizenship nor the height of satisfaction.

Where It All Goes

Taxes at the state level will be costing him more, but how much? At first glance, it looks as if the tax hike will be $12,404,163 or a tax of $2.59 against each $1,000 of assessed property valuation. The state has six separate mill levies which are, for 1965-66, 7.43 mills for the general fund, 3.20 mills for the special building fund, .20 mill for the state office building fund, .50 for the teacher retirement fund, .10 for the agricultural products research fund and .30 for the state parks fund.

All those levies add up to 11.73 mills or $11.73 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. For the 1964-65 year just ended, that levy was 9.14 mills or $9.14 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

This is the tax that people generally hear about and know about. It constitutes the total property tax levy of the tax but there are still a lot of other taxes. In direct consumer-paid taxes, Nebraskans will pay $9,391,000 more to the state in 1965-66 than they did in 1964-65. This will include $6 million in an extra cent per pack of cigarette taxes and $3,391,000 in an extra one-half cent per gallon in gasoline taxes.

These last two are not property taxes but they merely go to reduce the amount of the property tax. They are still paid for by the people of Nebraska and if we didn't have them, then the property tax would be just that much higher. Thus, the total tax increase for the state in 1965-66 will be $21,795,163 which would probably be equivalent to about a 5 mill levy. Additionally, the state will get in 1965-66 an estimated $40,796,031 in income from sources other than taxes and special levies. This includes the regular, non-earmarked cigarette tax income of $9,200,000, the intangible tax, liquor taxes, grain tax, income from investments and various other fees, licenses, etc.

To compare this figure with a year ago is next to impossible and is impossible without a major accounting effort. This is because the non-property tax income report for 1965-66 includes a lot of items that were not there last year. Last year they were found in various cash funds within the departments but have been placed in the general fund account this year for better control by the Legislature. The funds transferred from cash to general fund accounts total in the neighborhood of $15 million.

Without those cash funds, this source of income to the state last year amounted to $24.7 million. Thus, the cash funds transferred over are about equal to the increase of $16 million shown in this category of income for the new year. Therefore, it would seem that no increases of any substance are anticipated in these various forms of income.

This leaves the citizen facing the next tax increase of $21.7 million which was mentioned earlier. As Gov. Frank Morrison has pointed out, this will leave Nebraska still in an enviable position insofar as comparisons with other states are concerned.

Nebraska has ranked at the bottom of the list in taxes for state government per capita, our people pay an average less than the people of any other state. We will maintain this position or slip very little in the coming year.

At the same time, the state will make substantial progress in a number of fields. Municipalities will find good use for the extra gasoline tax income they will get, as will counties. We will be able to look forward to completion of the state education television network.

We will see the beginning of a program of growth and improvement at the University of Nebraska, a strengthened State Highway Patrol, an expansion of vocational education and many other advancements. In total, it would seem that the taxpayer has not been overburdened and the Legislature has done a commendable job of facing the responsibilities placed upon it at the beginning of its session.

None of the measures received a nay vote from either C. W. Holmquist of Oaklawn or Fred Carstens of Beatrice, both of whom show a 12-0 score. Neither senator was recorded on final reading balloting on three of the proposals.

Matzke and Lester Harsh of Bartley supported all of the bills except the gas tax hike. Their score: 14-1.

Ramey Whitney counted a 13-1 record, with only opposition directed at the measure providing state aid for area trade schools.

Calista Cooper Hughes had a 12-1 score, her only dissent being applied to the gas tax boost.

Others who supported the mass of those major bills: Hal Bauer of Lincoln, John Knight of Lincoln, Rudolf Kokes of Ord, all 13-2; Elmer Wallway of Emerson, 12-3; Pat Moulton of Omaha, 11-3; and Rick Budd of Nebraska City, 11-4.

The middle echelon: S. H. Brauer Sr. of Norfolk, 10-5; Herb Nore of Genoa, 10-5; Henry Pedersen Jr. of Omaha, 8-5; Ira Paine of Grand Island, 8-6; Chet Paxton of Thedford, Richard Proud of Omaha and William Wylie of Elgin, 8-7; and Harold Moylan of Omaha, 4-4.

Champion dissenter: Clifford Batchelder of Omaha, 5-8.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Brasilia Arises On The High Plains

BRASILIA, Brazil — It has the look of a magician's fabulous trick conjured out of the dark red earth of the planalto (high plains). Scrub waste 10 years ago, Brasilia is today a capital with perhaps the most distinguished contemporary architecture in the West, a city with its suburbs of 200,000.

What the "revolutionary" government of President Humberto Castello Branco is trying to do in two and a half years also partakes of something of the magical. The orgy of corruption and demagoguery under Joao Goulart had brought this nation of 84 million close to total breakdown in April, 1963. Anarchy and mob rule were just ahead as the printing presses poured out money with less and less value each day.

In a characteristically bloodless Brazilian coup, the military imposed order. They chose a retired military man of unquestioned integrity to be president as Goulart fled the country. And the congress, having gone through certain constitutional gyrations, voted Castello Branco into the office.

The president lists three goals for what he says must be his transitional service. They are, first, checking the runaway inflation; second, getting production started again, and third, strengthening the democratic process in Brazil.

In the first 16 months, he is still a long way from these goals, and that is one reason the president is under increasing pressure to agree to stay on in the office—by means of another congressional vote—beyond the elections due in October, 1966.

But when Castello Branco says the great danger to democracy in Latin America is personal power, he speaks not only the historic truth but with what seems every evidence of sincerity. He is pushing an electoral law that will reduce the number of parties from 13, most of them irresponsible splinters, to four or five. Thereby, he hopes to cut out some of the wilder eccentricities of Brazilian politics.

If he succeeds in handing over power to a duly-elected president, Castello Branco will have done what for a military man in this part of the hemisphere is like squaring the circle. Yet this short, thick-set, almost shy retired field marshal, who gives careful, precise answers to political questions, seems determined to do just that. Those observing him in the president believe his "no" means "no" and that he will not be persuaded to stay in power.

However, bloodless, the omelet of the revolution was not made without breaking eggs. Several thousand suspected communists or communist-leaning leftists were jailed or forced into exile. Some are still in jail, and military courts of intervention still function. At least one state governor was removed by the central government.

President Castello Branco says firmly that in the transitional period, these same restraints will be applied. He is sensitive to the charge that his is a military regime, pointing to his own determined effort to restore orderly representative government.

The ultimate test will lie not so much in whether Brazil achieves a fully democracy but whether out of this transition can come a restored economy and at least relative freedom of political choice. Transposing the terms of Western democracy on a turbulent Latin nation only just emerging from a horrendous ordeal of misgovernment is slightly unreasonable. The curse of corruption and lack of administrative capacity hangs over a people struggling with some beginning success to develop a great undeveloped country.

A singular irony is that the initiator of Brasilia is in voluntary exile in Paris, stripped for 10 years of his civil rights on a charge of corruption. Jucelino Kubitschek began in 1956, when he was president, to build a capital, as the constitution of 1891 provided, in the center of the country rather than in Rio de Janeiro. No highways, no railroads, nothing; marble and steel girders flown in airplanes—this was the drive behind the new city as it came off the drawing boards of Oscar Niemeyer and Brazil's other brilliant architects. The cost—it must have totaled several billion dollars—contributed to the inflation that reached a wild climax a few years later under Goulart.

"But at least," the average Brazilian is inclined to say, "he (Kubitschek) did something for us." The growth rate under Kubitschek was 6 to 7 percent a year. There is also popular agreement that if he could be a candidate next year, he would sweep the country. In the dry air and sharp sunlight of the plateau, the new government buildings seem at times suspended against the blue sky, so much are they a part of the landscape.

Volunteer's Job Worth More Than Free Meal

By ROBERT PETERSON

Q. "I'm living on a pinched income, but spend four hours a day as a hospital volunteer which permits me to take my meals at the hospital free. Recently a snob who thinks all volunteers should be rich and social hinted that I just come for the free food. The fact that it's partly true makes me feel miserable."

A. Hold your chin high and ignore the thrust. If you're a conscientious volunteer, the four hours you work are worth much more to the hospital than the cost of your meals. Most hospitals would be delighted to get dependable volunteers in exchange for their board.

Q. "I have two brothers in their mid-40s. One followed Dad's advice, became a lawyer, and settled down to a good job and a house in the suburbs. The other refused to go to college, never learned a trade, and lives with a beatnik wife in a travel trailer. They're rock hounds who roam the country collecting useless geological curios, write obscure poetry, peddle food supplements for a living and insist they couldn't be happier. Do you think Dad is justified in labeling the latter a failure?"

A. That's his privilege. Society tends to evaluate success in terms of money and status occupations. But who's to say the lawyer is better off than the peddler? Happiness is the stuff we seek and it's quite possible for wanderers to be as solidly content as stolid suburbanites.

Q. "We retired and moved to the Gulf coast where we sun and swim daily on the wonderful white sand beaches. But I've become aware how dreadfully unattractive the aging anatomy is in modern bathing suits. I'd like to cover up as much of my flab and varicose veins as possible. Has any manufacturer considered a bathing suit for elders resembling long-handled underwear?"

A. It's doubtful. Most elders who love the beach enjoy having the fresh air and sun beamed directly on their epidermis. Don't worry about how you look. Most beachgoers have become blind and immune to the assorted forms and distortions of human anatomy found at the average bathing beach.

Q. "Your column reminds me of Robert Browning and his stupid lines, 'Grow old with me, the best is yet to be.' I'm a widow, 72, stuck at home with arthritis and a skimpy pension. I don't go along with this sugary philosophy. As far as I can see, old age is pretty pitiful and gets progressively worse. What do you say to this?"

A. Your attitude just isn't normal. It must stem from the fact that you're deprived of the stimulating give-and-take of meeting new people and exchanging ideas and experience. I've talked with enough folks your age to know that most elders are moderately contented despite the encroachments of arthritis and inflation. Get on the phone. Make some new friends. Find someone who will come by and take you for an occasional drive. Try painting, sculpture or weaving. Anyone who sits at home alone doing nothing is bound to develop a sour attitude.

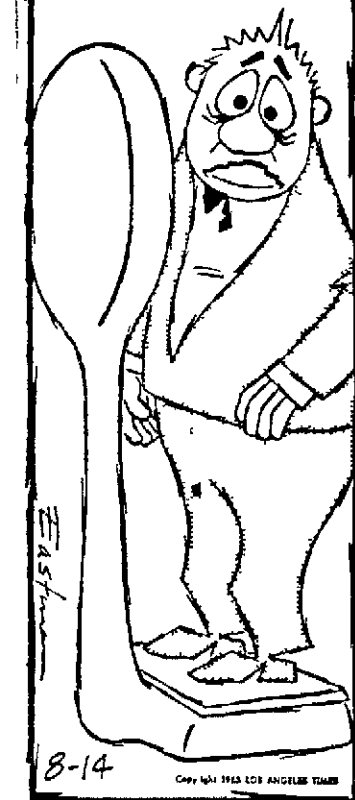

Q. "I've heard about a group of older people who have travel trailers and take trips and caravans together. How can I get in touch with this club?"

A. It's the Wally Byam Caravan Club, and you can write them for information at 822 Niles Street, Bakersfield, Calif.

Pope Aides To Review Statements

Defense attorneys for accused slayer Duane E. Pope Friday were granted the opportunity to review statements signed by the young Kansas after his arrest following the June 4 Big Springs holdup and murders.

Court-appointed attorney former Gov. Robert Crosby declared in the hearing that the defense for Pope will attempt to suppress the statements on "admissibility of evidence," but stated that it would be "useful" for psychiatrists to examine the confessions to determine Pope's state of mind when he was arrested and when he waived his right to counsel.

Crosby maintains that Pope is "blameless" for the crimes as charged "because of his mental condition at the time. The defense is going to be lack of mental capacity to be responsible for what the defendant was doing," he said.

Cite Need For Review
Defense attorneys also argued that they need to review other government eviolence against Pope such as guns, shells, unwritten statements and hotel registration slips to study his behavior after the crime.

However, U.S. District Judge Robert Van Pelt ruled that this part of the motion was "too broad," and he said he did not believe the government is required to furnish research it had done.

Van Pelt ordered the prosecution to expose statements taken June 11-12 in Kansas City, as well as certain newspaper and letters obtained from the defendant's Roxbury, Kan., farm home, on the grounds of a reasonable request."

Richling, who has nounced he will seek the death penalty for the accused slayer, labeled the defense motions asking access to the prosecution evidence "a blunderbuss attempt to secure the government's"

Noting that it would be "impossible for us even to begin to comply with the request," Richling declared "the defense has even asked the FBI, U.S. marshals and other custodians to become amateur psychiatrists and formulate an opinion concerning defendant's mental condition or demeanor."

Mayor Accepts Magee's Bid For Police Uniforms

Mayor Dean Petersen Friday, by executive order, accepted the bid of Magee's of $4,656.75 to furnish uniforms for the Police Department.

He also accepted the bid made by Dutton-Lainson Co. of $4,987.50 for furnishing electric cable to the Commercial Light Department.

A year's contract with Lincoln Electric Supply to furnish electric lamps for all city departments beginning Sept. 1, at a 45% discount off the advertised price list was also approved.

Waters Is Cedars Home Director

Asa Waters has been named executive director of Cedars Home Foundation, Inc., a charitable trust whose purpose is to provide a home for dependent and neglected children.

A Lincoln native and graduate of the University of Nebraska, Waters has been a trustee of the home since its founding in 1947.

He will be in charge of raising funds for operating expenses and obtaining long-term financial support through the further development of the foundation's permanent endowment fund.

School Merger Bill Passed, 29-4

A school merger bill sponsored by Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings, permitting federations of school districts for secondary school purposes, was passed 29-4 on final reading in the State Legislature Friday.

LB452 would permit a Class 3 parent district to federate with one or more associate districts. The associate districts would continue to control their grade school systems and could withdraw from the federation later if desired.

The bill was urged as a method of peacefully solving the problems which develop when a city high school grows to capacity and is unable to take in non-residents.

The case of Grand Island,

where the city district now finds itself surrounded by a Class VI district operating its own high school, was cited as a situation to be shunned.

A bill proposing a somewhat different approach to a similar problem, LB688, sponsored by Sen. Fred Carstens of Beatrice, had failed earlier to pass on final reading.

Like LB688, Sen. Marvel's LB452 lived a tortured life. It was killed in the Education Committee but was revived later and sent to the floor.

LB452 was co-sponsored by Sen. Albert Kjar of Lexington.

Sen. Marvel, pleased at approval of LB452, said the bill "is the culmination of a co-operative effort of rural and urban people to get together to solve their high school problems."

"The people of Adams County could have followed the example of Hall County or they could attempt to sit down and attempt to work out another method."

Under the bill, the school federation would provide instruction for grades 7 through 12.

Marvel said the procedure meets a junior-senior high school problem "without asking rural people to support urban elementary schools."

Also passed Friday was a voluminous bill rewriting state laws related to the issuance and sale of securities. The measure, LB348, was introduced for Gov. Frank Morrison by Sens. Kenneth Bowen of Red Cloud, Marvin E. Stromer of Lincoln and Stanley Matzke of Milford and was approved 37-0.

Enforcement of the act is vested in the state director of banking.

The bill carried the emergency clause and takes effect when signed by the governor.

Resolution Urges Use Of Private Schools For MDTA

A resolution urging fullest possible use of Nebraska's private vocational technical schools by the State Education Department in carrying out the Manpower Development and Training Act was introduced in the Legislature Friday.

Action on the resolution, No. 105, sponsored by Scottsbluff Sen. Terry Carpenter, was deferred.

The resolution noted that the federal act "provides for the utilization of private schools and individual referrals of trainees and the continued payment of full federal financing where a state cannot legally contribute to private education or training under this act."

It noted also that there presently appears to be a constitutional ban in Nebraska against contracting with private schools under the federal act.

Adopted 29-0 Friday was another Carpenter resolution, No. 103, which directs the State Board of Educational Lands and Funds to juggle funds if necessary to pay for the land appraisals which are required before school properties for appraisals in lands are sold. Lawmakers the next two years may not were advised the board's ap- be adequate.

Solons Pleased With Levy

Members of the Legislature expressed pleased surprise Friday that the new state property tax levy turned out to be as reasonable as it is.

The State Board of Equalization Thursday set the new over-all state levy at 11.73 mills, an increase of 2.59 mills over last year's 9.14 mills.

"We were sometimes led to believe it would be much higher," Sen. W. H. Hasbrook of West Point said in an interview.

He lauded the board for "following through on equalization in various parts of the state."

Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings, Budget Committee chairman, said he was "pleasantly surprised that the levy wasn't higher."

In relation to increases which occur in local school levies almost every year, the state increase remains modest, he indicated.

On the other hand, Sen. Eric Rasmussen of Fairmont predicted taxpayer reaction.

"It's not the mill levy that counts," he said. "What counts is the dollars collected. And when the people get their tax bills and see what they total, they are going to be shocked."

Rasmussen said the in-

Senators Refuse To Reconsider Ag Research Bill

The Legislature refused Friday to reconsider its rejection of a bill which would have tightened some of the controls on the State Agriculture Department's tax-financed program of research into new uses for farm products.

The reconsideration move by Lincoln Sen. John Knight, the author of LB807, needed 30 favorable votes but received only 24, with seven votes in opposition.

The bill earlier this week had failed on final reading 23-17, with 25 "aye" votes needed.

Referring to differences over the program between the Agriculture Department and the University of Nebraska, Sen. Knight acknowledged that the program "has been used by both sides for political purposes." But he said LB807 would take the program "out of the realm of politics and into the realm of good business procedures." He noted that the bill had the support of all farm organizations except the National Farmers Organization (NFO).

School Merger Bill Passed, 29-4

A school merger bill sponsored by Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings, permitting federations of school districts for secondary school purposes, was passed 29-4 on final reading in the State Legislature Friday.

LB452 would permit a Class 3 parent district to federate with one or more associate districts. The associate districts would continue to control their grade school systems and could withdraw from the federation later if desired.

The bill was urged as a method of peacefully solving the problems which develop when a city high school grows to capacity and is unable to take in non-residents.

The case of Grand Island,

where the city district now finds itself surrounded by a Class VI district operating its own high school, was cited as a situation to be shunned.

A bill proposing a somewhat different approach to a similar problem, LB688, sponsored by Sen. Fred Carstens of Beatrice, had failed earlier to pass on final reading.

Like LB688, Sen. Marvel's LB452 lived a tortured life. It was killed in the Education Committee but was revived later and sent to the floor.

LB452 was co-sponsored by Sen. Albert Kjar of Lexington.

Sen. Marvel, pleased at approval of LB452, said the bill "is the culmination of a co-operative effort of rural and urban people to get together to solve their high school problems."

"The people of Adams County could have followed the example of Hall County or they could attempt to sit down and attempt to work out another method."

Under the bill, the school federation would provide instruction for grades 7 through 12.

Marvel said the procedure meets a junior-senior high school problem "without asking rural people to support urban elementary schools."

Also passed Friday was a voluminous bill rewriting state laws related to the issuance and sale of securities. The measure, LB848, was introduced by Gov. Frank Morrison by Sens. Kenneth Bowen of Red Cloud, Marvin E. Stromer of Lincoln and Stanley Matzke of Milford and was approved 37-0.

Enforcement of the act is vested in the state director of banking.

The bill carried the emergency clause and takes effect when signed by the governor.

Resolution Urges Use Of Private Schools For MDTA

A resolution urging fullest possible use of Nebraska's private vocational technical schools by the State Education Department in carrying out the Manpower Development and Training Act was introduced in the Legislature Friday.

Action on the resolution, No. 105, sponsored by Scottsbluff Sen. Terry Carpenter, was deferred.

The resolution noted that the federal act "provides for the utilization of private schools and individual referrals of trainees and the continued payment of full federal financing where a state cannot legally contribute to private education or training under this act."

It noted also that there presently appears to be a constitutional ban in Nebraska against contracting with private schools under the federal act.

Adopted 29-0 Friday was another Carpenter resolution, No. 103, which directs the State Board of Educational Lands and Funds to juggle funds if necessary to pay for the land appraisals which are required before school lands are sold. Lawmakers the next two years may not be advised the board's appraisals are adequate.

Solons Pleased With Levy

Members of the Legislature expressed pleased surprise Friday that the new state property tax levy turned out to be as reasonable as it is.

The State Board of Equalization Thursday set the new over-all state levy at 11.73 mills, an increase of 2.59 mills over last year's 9.14 mills.

"We were sometimes led to believe it would be much higher," Sen. W. H. Hasbrook of West Point said in an interview.

He lauded the board for "following through on equalization in various parts of the state."

Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings, Budget Committee chairman, said he was "pleasantly surprised that the levy wasn't higher."

In relation to increases which occur in local school levies almost every year, the state increase remains modest, he indicated.

On the other hand, Sen. Eric Rasmussen of Fairmont predicted taxpayer reaction.

"It's not the mill levy that counts," he said. "What counts is the dollars collected. And when the people get their tax bills and see what they total, they are going to be shocked."

Rasmussen said the increase in assessed valuation helped keep the mill levy down but that this doesn't reduce the tax dollars collected.

Senators Refuse To Reconsider Ag Research Bill

The Legislature refused Friday to reconsider its rejection of a bill which would have tightened some of the controls on the State Agriculture Department's tax-financed program of research into new uses for farm products.

The reconsideration move by Lincoln Sen. John Knight, the author of LB807, needed 30 favorable votes but received only 24, with seven votes in opposition.

The bill earlier this week had failed on final reading 23-17, with 25 "aye" votes needed.

Referring to differences over the program between the Agriculture Department and the University of Nebraska, Sen. Knight acknowledged that the program "has been used by both sides for political purposes." But he said LB807 would take the program "out of the realm of politics and into the realm of good business procedures." He noted that the bill had the support of all farm organizations except the National Farmers Organization (NFO).

THOU SHALT NOT KILL

This is the sixth commandment. You shall not kill a person.

Murder is a climax to murderous feeling . . . the prologue to suicide that marches inexorably to its own destruction. He who kills or causes to be killed is equally guilty under God's law. All human life is sacred. Only God can give it and only God should take it away. Therefore, do not let the sun go down on thine anger . . . lest thou, in a fit of temper, slay thy brother. Hatred is an acid that corrodes the minds and morals of men. Too often murder is the result. Love . . . the other side, the positive side, of "Thou Shalt Not Kill," is the greatest proven prescription for your own peace, and happiness, and salvation. Do not kill, but save. Keep sober. Think straight. Live right. Help every moment that gives you a chance to help save a life.

The Lord handed down The Law, The Ten Commandments, through one man . . . Moses. The impact of this story upon our lives will remain forever in man's quest for truth and freedom. Ministers of all faiths and the community-minded firms below persuade you to read the Commandment commentary above and make it a part of your life . . . it is your heritage.

Meet Star Carrier Eddie Daly

Meet Star carrier Eddie Daly from Superior, Nebraska. Ed has been on his morning route a little over a year. In this time, Ed has increased the number of customers on his route to make more profit each four-week period. Eddie likes the news paper business. Prior to moving to Superior, Ed had a route in Fairfield, Nebraska.

Eddie

Since Ed took over his route, he bought a new bike and a pickup truck for $50.00. He likes to build things of wood, and he is a member of the 4-H Club. This year he is going to enter his bug collection in the Nichols County Fair.

Baseball is his favorite sport and the position he likes best is short-stop. Math is his favorite subject in school. Eddie feels the experience from his morning route has helped him with his school subjects. His future plans are to attend the University of Nebraska.

Mr. and Mrs. Daly, Eddie's parents, manage the Lincoln Newspaper Agency at Superior. They feel a newspaper route is an important project that every youngster should undertake.

Any young man interested in carrying the morning Lincoln Star should write to the State Carrier Department of the Lincoln Star in Lincoln, Nebraska 68501.

GUESTS

have a tour of the city

Miss Joan Emery of Darien, Conn., and Miss Ann Girard of Boston are two young teachers in the Boston public schools. One day they began to wonder what was on the other side of the mountains—the Alleghenys, that is—and decided to find out. The trek began early this summer, and their travels have taken them from the east coast to the west coast, and from the Canadian border to the Mexican border. They have done every national park, and camped out in some of them—Yellowstone and Glacier—At the time they chose to descend into the Grand Canyon there were no burrows available—so they did it on foot. And now Miss Emery and Miss Girard are in Lincoln, the guests Mr. and Mrs. Don Cunningham who are old friends of Miss Emery's parents. Since their arrival in town they have seen almost

Capt. and Mrs. J. B. McLeroy recently returned from their vacation. They went to Fort Worth, Tex., to visit Mrs. McLeroy's parents Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Gustafson, and Capt. McLeroy's parents Mr. and Mrs. James B. McLeroy. From there—on to Houston, Tex.

Mrs. J. B. McLeroy had a luncheon shower for Mrs. D. G. West. The guests at the two tables of bridge were Mrs. John L. Wiles, Mrs. Adem Rech, Mrs. Joe Hamblin, Mrs. John Wiles Sr., Mrs. Terry Bradley, Mrs. Charles Bopp, Mrs. West and Mrs. McLeroy.

Capt. and Mrs. Robert Demkovich and their two children, David and Barbara, recently returned to their LAFB quarters after a summer vacation in New York. While there they visited their parents, Mrs. Joseph Demkovich and Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Murphy. Also in New York the travelers met some old friends, Maj. Neil Leeper, and Maj. and Mrs. Robert Freeman. Mrs. Demkovich's younger sister, Terri, accompanied them back to Lincoln and plans a short vacation here before returning to school.

A surprise shower and bridge was given by Mrs. Joseph Daniels at her quarters for Mrs. Eugene Alley. Her guests were Mrs. Richard Thompson, Mrs. James Butler, Mrs. Feay Goodwin, Mrs. Joe Hamblin, Mrs. Terry Bradley, Mrs. Walter Nickerson, Mrs. Steve Krata, Mrs. Robert Walton, Mrs. Gordon Zigler, Mrs. James Wright, Mrs. Al Bow. Holding high score was Mrs. Goodwin and second honors went to Mrs. Brown.

Mrs. Gordon Zigler and her two sons, Gordon and Mark, recently returned from Topeka, Kan., where they were the house guests of Mrs. Jerry Skinner.

Recent house guests at the LAFB quarters of Capt. and Mrs. John L. Wiles were Capt. Wiles' parents, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Wiles, of Rocky River, Ohio.

Capt. and Mrs. James Carroll are having as their houseguest Mrs. Carroll's mother Mrs. Richard Johnson of Paxton, Mass.

News of the younger set includes a birthday party for Lyn, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. John L. Wiles.

Wishing Lyn a "happy fifth birthday" were Tammy, Timmy, Shelly and Sandy Bopp, Debbie Hansen, Steve Schmoker, Denise Littlefield, Tray Anz, Hank and Steve Thones, Jackie Hover, Mike Morris, Brenda and Blinda Brodner, Debbie and Jeff Wiles.

Recent houseguests at the quarters of Capt. and Mrs. Clifford D. Clark were Capt. Clark's parents Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Clark of DuQuoin, Ill.

Modern inventors have made birthday celebrations easier for the family who is not musically inclined. The cake-platter that plays "Happy Birthday" relieves family and friends, but the birthday honoree must still extinguish every candle to get his wish. This morning, we have news of some enthusiastic candle blowing-out-ers.

EASTRIDGE

Eastridge Drive had some double celebrating on Wednesday evening. Terry Robel celebrated her 15th birthday with a slumber party. The occasion also served as a surprise "welcome home" for Shirley Peterson, who has just returned from a two month session at Rocky Ridge Music Camp in Colorado. Guests at the party were Linda Mallon, Bev Shaner, Eva Gibson, Judy Broz, Barb Lewis, Debbie Edwards, Patrice Graham, and Jeanette Campbell. Terry's brother, Dave Robel, and a friend, Jerry Jacoby, entertained the girls with a drum and guitar presentation. All of the guests were spring graduates of Millard Leifer junior high school.

A former resident of the Eastridge area has returned for a visit. She is Mrs. Herbert Anderson, who moved with her family to Connecticut a year ago. On Thursday she was the honored guest at a coffee given at the home of Mrs. Richard Freeman. Mrs. D. J. Cochran also was a hostess at the morning get-together.

HAPPY HOLLOW HEIGHTS

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Millard have been quite occupied this past week entertaining their three grandchildren. Steven, Randyll, and Redarie, of San Diego, Calif. They will be in Lincoln until Sept. 8, when they will return home to their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Baker. Another guest at the Millard household for the past two weeks has been their daughter, Miss Nila Boatman, of Little Rock, Ark. She is leaving this weekend to return home.

EASTBOROUGH

West Rio Road is losing a neighbor next Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wilding and their daughters, Jennifer and Jacqueline, are leaving their 241 West Rio address to a new home in Charleston, W.Va. The Wilding family has resided in Lincoln for three years.

MEADOW LANE

Vacationing from the Meadow Lane area this week is Debbie Bishop, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bishop. Debbie is spending the week with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Crookery, in Millard.

In case anyone has been trying to phone Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Swartzleonard, they have been away from Lincoln for a month. Their travels began with a trip to California, where they attended the wedding of their oldest granddaughter, Miss Sharon Swartzleonard, who married Paul Billeci of Pittsburg, Calif. Miss Swartzleonard is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Swartzleonard, formerly of Lincoln and now of Martinez, Calif.

GUESTS have a tour of the city

Miss Joan Emery of Darien, Conn., and Miss Ann Girard of Boston are two young teachers in the Boston public schools. One day they began to wonder what was on the other side of the mountains—the Alleghenys, that is—and decided to find out. The trek began early this summer, and their travels have taken them from the east coast to the west coast, and from the Canadian border to the Mexican border. They have done every national park, and camped out in some of them—Yellowstone and Glacier—At the time they chose to descend into the Grand Canyon there were no burrows available—so they did it on foot. And now Miss Emery and Miss Girard are in Lincoln, the guests Mr. and Mrs. Don Cunningham who are old friends of Miss Emery's parents. Since their arrival in town they have seen almost

Morning Wedding

The wedding of Miss Kathleen Kay Rapp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard C. Rapp of Denton, and Frank David Milbury son of Mr. and Mrs. Rupert A. Milbury of Hampton Falls, N.H., took place Saturday morning, Aug. 7, at the Methodist Church in Pleasant Dale. The 10:30 o'clock service was solemnized by the Rev. Leslie Lewis.

For her wedding, the bride wore a daytime frock of white nubbed silk completed by a full-length redingote of white lace. Her mantilla veil was fashioned of lace, and she wore a shoulder corsage of white daisy chrysanthemums.

Miss Donna Clater of Grand Island, was the maid of honor and bride's only attendant. Serving Mr. Milbury as best man was Marshall Hoyt, Jr. of Moorestown, N.J.

DEAR ABBY: Our minister greets his congregation at the door with the lmpet handshake you could ever imagine. In fact, he just stocks out his hand and lets other people shake it. It's like grabbing hold of a dishrag. I once heard that a firm handshake means strength of character, friendliness and honesty. And a weak handshake means weakness of character, unfriendliness and dishonesty. Is there anything to this?

CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: No! Don't pass snap judgments on the strength of a handshake. Generalizations are dangerous. The man with the firmest grip could have more up his sleeve than a strong arm. But I agree, it is disappointing to get a wishy-wash handshake when one expects a firmer one.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter was recently married at a very beautiful wedding. A wedding is supposed to be a happy occasion, right? Well, I wish you could have seen the groom's mother. She cried and sobbed through the whole thing as though her son was being sentenced to Sing Sing for life. A few tears of joy are expected at a wedding, so I didn't say anything. But at the reception she started up again, so I finally offered her a tranquilizer. She said, "No thanks. I don't take dope." When I saw that she was making a funeral out of my daughter's wedding, I told her either to quit crying or go home and cry. I didn't see her after that, so I guess she went home. (Believe me nobody missed her.)

A few days later the groom's father called my husband and told him I should apologize to his wife for sending her home from the wedding. I think SHE owes ME an apology for spoiling a $900 wedding. What do you think?

Morning Wedding

The wedding of Miss Kathleen Kay Rapp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard C. Rapp of Denton, and Frank David Milbury, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rupert A. Milbury of Hampton Falls, N.H., took place Saturday morning, Aug. 7, at the Methodist Church in Pleasant Dale. The 10:30 o'clock service was solemnized by the Rev. Leslie Lewis.

Miss Donna Clater of Grand Island, was the maid of honor and bride's only attendant. Serving Mr. Milbury as best man was Marshall Hoyt, Jr. of Moores-town, N.J.

For her wedding, the bride wore a daytime frock of white nubbed silk completed by a full-length redingote of white lace. Her mantilla veil was fashioned of lace, and she wore a shoulder corsage of white daisy chrysanthemums.

DOUG TUCKER

Lincoln Pro Squad Faces Kansas City

Fairbury — Lincoln's entry in the newly-formed Professional Football League of America goes on display here tonight when the Comets tangle with the Kansas City Buffaloes in an 8 p.m. kick-off at the Fairbury JC Field.

Head coach Don Erway has tabbed six former University of Nebraska players for starting offensive berths on the platoon directed by ex-Husker quarterback Doug Tucker.

Erway is counting on Tucker's passing ability as a big aid in the Comets' success in the league affairs opening Aug. 28 against the Omaha Mustangs at Rosenblatt Stadium.

Tucker was impressive each year during spring drills and in the spring intrasquad game as a Cornhusker, but had to play behind the likes of Dennis Clardige, Fred Duda and Bob Churchich.

Tucker's chief passing targets will be split end Mike Eger, another former Husker, and flanker Rod Franz, who played freshman ball behind Kent McCloughan at Nebraska before transferring to State College of Iowa.

Rounding out the backfield at the running back slot will be Ron Barry and at fullback Byron McCane. McCane was a Husker freshman stand-out last fall before stumbling over the books and Barry played his collegiate ball at Hastings.

Managed Eight Teams
Third base Coach Don Heffner of the New York Mets managed eight minor league teams. He is a former Yankee second baseman.

Nebraska's Best 18 Starts Monday

Is there a hole on your golf course that you feel is challenging, tough and yet a fair test of golf ability? And does your course have a hole that offers all these characteristics, plus a touch of beauty?

If so, then it may be included in The Lincoln Star's Best 18 of Nebraska.

Star sports editor Hal Brown has spent many hours visiting with golf pros throughout the state, discussing and studying choice holes on Nebraska's many golf courses.

The object was to pick Nebraska's best hole at each of 18 holes. It is Nebraska's Best 18 as distinguished from the 18 best which might have included three or more No. 4 holes, two or three No. 7 holes but no No. 1 or No. 18 holes.

After selecting the holes, Brown traveled the state with two of Lincoln's top golfers, Charlie Borner and Matt Taber, plus the host club pro playing the holes.

You can follow their fortunes on some of Nebraska's toughest and most

Brown Borner Taber

beautiful holes starting Monday in The Lincoln Star.

Learn how Borner and Taber plus the host pro played and fared on the hole called by the host pro "a self discipline hole." Watch how these top golfers played the best holes on your course and how they fared with par on the difficult mythical 18-hole layout.

It all starts Monday in your Lincoln Star.

Tommy Aaron Retains Lead; Arnold Palmer Penalized

Ligonier, Pa. (P)—Arnold Palmer, golfdom's fallen idol, took an incredible nine-inning penalty—on a par 5 hole while scrambling Tommy Aaron retained his lead in the PGA Championship with a 137 after Friday's frantic second round.

While major misfortune was once again befalling Palmer, the host pro, these were the other principal developments at the Laurel Valley Golf Club:

1. Canada's George Knudson shot a hole in one.

2. Most of the first round leaders careened back into the pack while Jack Nicklaus and Dave Marr moved into a tie for second at 139.

3. It rained. The sun shone. The wind blew. The wind didn't blow.

4. There was an erroneous report of a baby being born on the 12th tee.

5. A major flap developed with a report of dissent between Palmer and resident pro Paul Erath. Palmer, who had other things to worry about, and the club And Marr, a slim native of Houston now playing out of Larchmont, N.Y., had this observation of Palmer's vast, varied problems:

"I can't understand it. He's got a lot on his mind. 'Maybe he needs a keeper'."

The two-stroke penalty for Palmer, onetime king of the game who is suddenly a struggling also-ran, was his second in as many days. Thursday's penalty came on the opening hole when he allowed two marshals to remove a bridge railing that interfered with his swing and took a double bogey 6.

Friday's affair was his own doing. He reported it himself after playing his second hole, actually the 11th, on the rolling, 7,000-yard, par 36-35-71 layout.

It went this way: His second shot went into a gully. His third went into the ball only about 30 feet. His fourth was in a bunker. He blasted out and two-putted.

In the gully, however, he had knocked a rock out with his back swing on a practice stroke, recalled it later and told tourney officials. They promptly assessed two more strokes.

The leaders had their troubles—not like Palmer, of course—on the course that was made tougher by gusty winds, a shower, longer tees and more testing pin placements.

There were but a scattering of sub-par rounds, led by the 69s posted by Knudson and Marr. Knudson's was bolstered by the third ace in PGA Championship history. He made it with a three-iron on the 238-yard eighth.

Aaron, who had a first round 66, scrambled to a 71. He fell back to second at one point on four bogeys and as many birdies, three of them on his last four holes.

Marr bogeyed two long par 4s, but caught four birdies, including a fantastic shot out of the water and onto the green on No. 15.

Nicklaus was up and down — "don't ask me how the fairways were. I didn't see them all day. It was a real scramble round"—with his 70. They hold a one-stroke lead over Billy Casper, who came in with a 70 for 140 and was along in fourth place. Gardner

ner Dickinson and Ray Floyd, two of the first day contenders, followed at 141—Floyd after a 73 and Dickinson after 74.

Don Bies, a young club pro from Seattle, veteran Mike Souchak and Dick Sikes followed at 141.

Among the other first round leaders, Mason Rudolph had a 76, and Sam Snead and Bruce Devlin 75 for 173.

Defending champion Bobby Nichols had a 75 for 149, just putting him under the wire in the cut to the low 70 and ties for the final two rounds. U.S. Open champion Gary Player went to a 72 for 146.

South Team Visits Hospital

Each of the South players "adopted" one or two youngsters for the duration of the visit.

But the youngsters made friends with the entire squad as they had each player and the four coaches sign their autograph books.

Gary Thompson of Lincoln Northeast and Doug Dworak of Lincoln Southeast had the toughest "workouts" as they cavorted with a trio of live-wires in Timmy (5), Jacob (7) and Alan (8).

Bob Scott, Lincoln Northeast quarterback, made a hit with his 12-year-old friend, Larry, by giving the wheelchair confined youngster some swift rides down a driveway behind the picnic area.

Larry would have liked more trips, but was understanding when Bob suggested going inside to cool off a little after the exercise produced beads of sweat that covered his forehead.

McCook's Bob Best had a "date" with 14-year-old Kathy, who had to lie prone with a cast on her right foot.

Bob is now much better informed on the subject of baseball, thanks to Kathy's facts and figures on the Twins.

Joining the players at the hospital were cheerleaders from Beatrice who will be performing at the Shrine Bowl game.

Jackie Betka, Karen Goble, Janet Claassen, Susie Jones, Stephanie Smethers and Martha Lenhart each had youngsters of their own to visit.

Wichita Girls Beat Omaha By Narrow 1-0

Topeka, Kan. (P)—Swift base running by Phil Fast gave Wichita a 1-0 victory over Omaha in two extra innings Friday night in the Midwest Regional Women's Softball tournament.

Omaha's Marlene McCauley held Wichita to one hit through the regulation seven innings. In the last of the ninth Miss Fast singled, was sacrificed to second, then scored the winning run on Karen Swartz' ground-out to right field.

Matt Shoots Par 72 At Hillcrest For Third Straight Golfing Title

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Matt Taber won his second straight Lincoln Men's City Golf Championship Friday with a par 72 over the Hillcrest Country Club course for a 72-hole total of 289, one over par.

Taber's round was the best of the top three as his closest challengers, Ed Smith and Charlie Borner, each shot one-over-par 73s. Smith finished second at 292 and Borner was third at 294.

The victory gave Taber his third city championship in the last four years with Borner notching the title in 1963.

"I was just lucky," Taber noted after accepting the many congratulations from the gallery that followed the three leaders during the final holes.

"I played badly all the way around," he continued. "Except for those two holes near the end, my chipping was atrocious."

The two holes of which he was speaking were Nos. 16 and 17 where he recovered after missing the green to register pars.

Still leading Smith by the same two strokes that he had started the day with and leading Borner by four, Taber was below the left bunker with his tee shot on the 200-yard, par-3 16th.

But he chipped three feet from the pin and sank the putt for the par after Smith and Borner had each parred the hole.

At the 17th, Taber was below a right bunker with his second shot to the par-4 hole while Borner was on the green and Smith was just on the left front fringe.

Again he chipped within 18 inches of the cup and salvaged the par that gave him a three-stroke margin over Smith, who took three to get down from the fringe for a bogey-5.

"That's when I felt I had the tournament won," Taber admitted. "But I also felt real good about my chances when I made that chip shot at the 16th."

"But aside from those two chips shots, my chipping was bad. I hit every green until the eighth on the front side and still turned in only 36."

"And on Nos. 8, 10, 11 and 12, I missed the greens, then took three to get down on all of them."

"I played poorly and I'm just lucky to win," he concluded.

Smith, a 43-year-old Lincoln business executive who held the first round lead with a 70 at the Lincoln Country Club, refused to fold throughout the tournament and was still in the running until he bogeyed the 17th.

However, Smith felt his chances slip at the par-3 12th.

Nebraska Doesn't Mind Being Picked For First

... MISSOURI POTENTIALLY BETTER

Kansas City (P)—Nebraska

doesn't mind being picked to finish No. 1 in Big Eight football, Missouri is potentially as good or better than last year and Oklahoma is in a rebuilding year.

These were the views expressed by the Big Eight coaches at the annual kickoff luncheon here in connection with their regular August meeting.

The forward pass will be much more common in the traditionally conservative Big Eight this fall, with the advent of unrestricted two-platoon football and the return of several top quarterbacks. This much seems certain.

Kansas State's Doug Weaver, the first speaker, told the crowd of more than 600, "It's a thrill to be No. 1. I've tried to be first for a long time."

Weaver said the shift of Ed Daniele, the 1964 quarterback, to right half is a permanent one, with sophomores Vic Castillo and Mike White taking over at quarter.

He said K-State defense is good, so "Our hopes rest with the offense. We'll pass about 20 times a game—it'll be a shock to the alumni!"

Phil Cutchin of Oklahoma State said—he couldn't match Weaver's humor because his schedule includes five bowl teams. He said, "This time of year it's difficult to find anything too terribly funny."

"We'll have greater depth in numbers, at least," he said. "I sincerely believe we could have a better team and not win as many games."

Carl Selmer, Nebraska's offensive line coach subbing for head coach Bob Devaney, said, "We're very pleased they picked us to win. One of these year's we'd like to make the sportswriters light in their forecast."

"You know, we have a two-game losing streak (Oklahoma and the Cotton Bowl to Arkansas) and it would be nice to open with South Dakota."

Selmer paid Pete Tatman, No. 2 fullback, at least four to eight weeks with a severely burned arm, the result of a motorcycle accident a staunch foe of two-platoon football, said he doesn't have enough quality depth to play two-way ball but must play it anyway. He praised the squad's enthusiasm after finishing last.

"The great thing about sports is that you always have a chance to redeem yourself," he said "I'd hate to stop now."

The Sooners backfield will be faster but sophomores must provide the answers in the offensive line, plus some other spots.

"I only hope our sophs are as good as our 1962 sophs," Jones said. The Sooners won the championship in '62.

Missouri's Dan Devine said his club is potentially better than last year, "But every team in our league will be better."

He said offensive guards and center will be a problem but called his backfield the fastest at Missouri since 1960. Backs Charlie Brown and Ken Boston are expected to be ready after knee operations.

Jack Mitchell of Kansas said the big question on offense will be whether an improved air game led by Bob Skahan can make up for the loss of All-America halfback Gale Sayers. He expects the defense to be better.

"Of our knee cases," he said, "I'd say Mike Shinn has a 40 per cent change of playing through the season, Dick Pratt 65 per cent and Bill Perry 70."

Colorado's Eddie Crowder, speaking as the football coach and not the Athletic Director, noted his squad has only nine seniors and will be 62 per cent sophomore. But he added:

"We have a few men who are very gifted and will help us in the future, such as end Sam Harris and fullback Wilmer Cooks."

Lincoln Pro Squad Faces Kansas City

Fairbury — Lincoln's entry in the newly-formed Professional Football League of America goes on display here tonight when the Comets tangle with the Kansas City Buffaloes in an 8 p.m. kickoff at the Fairbury JC Field.

Head coach Don Erway has tabbed six former University of Nebraska players for starting offensive berths on the platoon directed by ex-Husker quarterback Doug Tucker.

Erway is counting on Tucker's passing ability as a big aid in the Comets' success in the league affairs opening Aug. 28 against the Omaha Mustangs at Rosenblatt Stadium.

Tucker was impressive each year during spring drills and in the spring intrasquad game as a Cornhusker, but had to play behind the likes of Dennis Clardige, Fred Duda and Bob Churchich.

Tucker's chief passing targets will be split end Mike Eger, another former Husker, and flanker Rod Franz, who played freshman ball behind Kent McCloughan at Nebraska before transferring to State College of Iowa.

Rounding out the backfield at the running back slot will be Ron Barry and at fullback Byron McCane. McCane was a Husker freshman stand-out last fall before stumbling over the books and Barry played his collegiate ball at Hastings.

Sterner, Michka, Osentowski and Geisler are former Cornhuskers. Nannen played at Nebraska Wesleyan and Murphy at the University of Nevada.

Managed Eight Teams

Third base Coach Don Heffner of the New York Mets managed eight minor league teams. He is a former Yankee second baseman.

Nebraska's Best 18 Starts Monday

Is there a hole on your golf course that you feel is challenging, tough and yet a fair test of golf ability? And does your course have a hole that offers all these characteristics, plus a touch of beauty?

If so, then it may be included in The Lincoln Star's Best 18 of Nebraska.

Star sports editor Hal Brown has spent many hours visiting with golf pros throughout the state, discussing and studying choice holes on Nebraska's many golf courses.

The object was to pick Nebraska's best hole at each of 18 holes. It is Nebraska's Best 18 as distinguished from the 18 best which might have included three or more No. 4 holes, two or three No. 7 holes but no No. 1 or No. 18 holes.

After selecting the holes, Brown traveled the state with two of Lincoln's top golfers, Charlie Borner and Matt Taber, plus the host club pro playing the holes.

You can follow their fortunes on some of Nebraska's toughest and most beautiful holes starting Monday in The Lincoln Star.

Learn how Borner and Taber plus the host pro played and fared on the hole called by the host pro "a self discipline hole." Watch how these top golfers played the best holes on your course and how they fared with par on the difficult mythical 18-hole layout.

It all starts Monday in your Lincoln Star.

Tommy Aaron Retains Lead; Arnold Palmer Penalized

Ligonier, Pa. (AP)—Arnold Palmer, golfdom's fallen idol, took an incredible nine-including another two stroke penalty—on a par 5 hole while scrambling Tommy Aaron retained his lead in the PGA Championship with a 137 after Friday's frantic second round.

While major misfortune was once again befalling Palmer, the host pro, these were the other principal developments at the Laurel Valley Golf Club:

1. Canada's George Knudson shot a hole in one.

2. Most of the first round leaders careened back into the pack while Jack Nicklaus and Dave Marr moved into a tie for second at 139.

3. It rained. The sun shone. The wind blew. The wind didn't blow.

4. There was an erroneous report of a baby being born on the 12th tee.

5. A major flap developed with a report of dissension between Palmer and resident pro Paul Erath. Palmer, who had other things to worry about, and the club

And Marr, a slim native of Houston now playing out of Larchmont, N.Y., had this observation of Palmer's vast, varied problems:

"I can't understand it. He's got a lot on his mind. 'Maybe he needs a keeper'."

The two-stroke penalty for Palmer, onetime king of the game who is suddenly a struggling also-ran, was his second in as many days. Thursday's penalty came on the opening hole when he allowed two marshals to remove a bridge railing that interfered with his swing and took a double bogey 6.

Friday's affair was his own doing. He reported it himself after playing his second hole, actually the 11th, on the rolling, 7,090-yard, par 36-35-71 layout.

It went this way: His second shot went into a gully. His third moved the ball only about 30 feet. His fourth was in a bunker. He blasted out and two-putted.

In the gully, however, he had knocked a rock out with his back swing on a practice stroke, recalled it later and told tourney officials. They promptly assessed two more strokes.

The leaders had their troubles—not like Palmer, of course—on the course that was made tougher by gusty winds, a shower, longer tees and more testing pin placements.

There were but a scattering of sub-par rounds, led by the 69s posted by Knudson and Marr. Knudson's was bolstered by the third ace in PGA Championship history. He made it with a three-iron on the 238-yard eighth.

Aaron, who had a first round 66, scrambled to a 71. He fell back to second at one point on four bogeys and as many birdies, three of them on his last four holes.

Marr bogeyed two long par 4s, but caught four birds, including a fantastic shot out of the water and onto the green on No. 15.

Nicklaus was up and down—"don't ask me how the fairways were. I didn't see them all day. It was a real scramble round"—with his 70. They hold a one-stroke lead over Billy Casper, who came in with a 70 for 140 and was along in fourth place. Gardner

ner Dickinson and Ray Floyd, two of the first day contenders, followed at 141—Floyd after a 73 and Dickinson after 74.

Don Bies, a young club pro from Seattle, veteran Mike Souchak and Dick Sikes followed at 141.

Among the other first round leaders, Mason Rudolph had a 76, and Sam Snead and Bruce Devlin 75s for 17.

Defending champion Bobby Nichols had a 75 for 149, just putting him under the wire in the cut to the low 70 and ties for the final two rounds. U.S. Open champion Gary Player went to a 72 for 146.

South Team Visits Hospital

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

Minneapolis — Nearly 60 patients at the Twin Cities Unit of the Shrine Hospitals for Crippled Children forgot their ailments for a couple of hours Friday afternoon when the South Shrine Bowl team visited the hospital.

The trip will be repeated today by the North team. Each of the 33-player squads makes the trip annually to get a deeper meaning of the Shrine slogan "Strong Legs Run That Weak Legs May Walk."

Each of the South players "adopted" one or two youngsters for the duration of the visit.

But the youngsters made friends with the entire squad as they had each player and the four coaches sign their autograph books.

Gary Thompson of Lincoln Northeast and Doug Dworak of Lincoln Southeast had the toughest "workouts" as they cavorted with a trio of live-wires in Timmy (5), Jacob (7) and Alan (8).

Profits from the Nebraska Shrine Bowl game are sent to the Twin Cities hospital. The first six games have produced more than $375,000 for the work with crippled children.

They wrestled the Lincoln lads on the ground and capped a hectic afternoon with "piggyback" rides around the picnic area.

Bob Scott, Lincoln Northeast quarterback, made a hit with his 12-year-old friend, Larry, by giving the wheelchair confined youngster some swift rides down a driveway behind the picnic area.

Larry would have liked more trips, but was understanding when Bob suggested going inside to cool off a little after the exercise produced beads of sweat that covered his forehead.

McCook's Bob Best had a "date" with 14-year-old Kathy, who had to lie prone with a cast on her right foot.

Bob is now much better informed on the subject of baseball, thanks to Kathy's facts and figures on the Twins.

Joining the players at the hospital were cheerleaders from Beatrice who will be performing at the Shrine Bowl game.

Jackie Betka, Karen Goble, Janet Claassen, Susie Jones, Stephanie Smethers and Martha Lenhart each had youngsters of their own to visit.

Wichita Girls Beat Omaha By Narrow 1-0

Topeka, Kan. (AP)—Swift base running by Phyl Fast gave Wichita a 1-0 victory over Omaha in two extra innings Friday night in the Midwest Regional Women's Softball tournament.

Omaha's Marlene McCauley held Wichita to one hit through the regulation seven innings. In the last of the ninth Miss Fast singled, was sacrificed to second, then scored the winning run on Karen Swarts' ground-out to right field.

Matt Shoots Par 72 At Hillcrest For Third Straight Golfing Title

... ED SMITH TAKES SECOND; BORNER THIRD

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Matt Taber won his second straight Lincoln Men's City Golf Championship Friday with a par 72 over the Hillcrest Country Club course for a 72-hole total of 289, one over par.

Taber's round was the best of the top three as his closest challengers, Ed Smith and Charlie Borner, each shot one-over-par 73s. Smith finished second at 292 and Borner was third at 294.

The victory gave Taber his third city championship in the last four years with Borner notching the title in 1963.

"I was just lucky," Taber noted after accepting the many congratulations from the gallery that followed the three leaders during the final holes.

"I played badly all the way around," he continued. "Except for those two holes near the end, my chipping was atrocious."

The two holes of which he was speaking were Nos. 16 and 17 where he recovered after missing the green to register pars.

Still leading Smith by the same two strokes that he had started the day with and leading Borner by four, Taber was below the left bunker with his tee shot on the 200-yard, par-3 16th.

But he chipped three feet from the pin and sank the putt for the par after Smith and Borner had each parred the hole.

At the 17th, Taber was below a right bunker with his second shot to the par-4 hole while Borner was on the green and Smith was just on the left front fringe.

Again he chipped within 18 inches of the cup and salvaged the par that gave him a three-stroke margin over Smith, who took three to get down from the fringe for a bogey-5.

"That's when I felt I had the tournament won," Taber admitted. "But I also felt real good about my chances when I made that chip shot at the 16th."

"But aside from those two chips shots, my chipping was bad. I hit every green until the eighth on the front side and still turned in only 36."

"And on Nos. 8, 10, 11 and 12, I missed the greens, then took three to get down on all of them."

"I played poorly and I'm just lucky to win," he concluded.

Smith, a 43-year-old Lincoln business executive who held the first round lead with a 70 at the Lincoln Country Club, refused to fold throughout the tournament and was still in the running until he bogeyed the 17th.

However, Smith felt his chances slip at the par-3 12th.

Nebraska Doesn't Mind Being Picked For First

... MISSOURI POTENTIALLY BETTER

Kansas City (AP)—Nebraska doesn't mind being picked to finish No. 1 in Big Eight football, Missouri is potentially as good or better than last year and Oklahoma is in a rebuilding year.

These were the views expressed by the Big Eight coaches at the annual kickoff luncheon here in connection with their regular August meeting.

The forward pass will be much more common in the traditionally conservative Big Eight this fall, with the advent of unrestricted two-platoon football and the return of several top quarterbacks. This much seems certain.

Kansas State's Doug Weaver, the first speaker, told the crowd of more than 600, "It's a thrill to be No. 1. I've tried to be first for a long time."

Weaver said the shift of Ed Daniele, the 1964 quarterback, to right half is a permanent one, with sophomores Vic Castillo and Mike White taking over at quarter.

He said K-State defense is good, so "Our hopes rest with the offense. We'll pass about 20 times a game—it'll be a shock to the alumni!"

Phil Cutchin of Oklahoma State said—he couldn't match Weaver's humor because his schedule includes five bowl teams. He said, "This time of year it's difficult to find anything too terribly funny."

"We'll have greater depth in numbers, at least," he said. "I sincerely believe we could have a better team and not win as many games."

Carl Selmer, Nebraska's offensive line coach subbing for head coach Bob Devaney, said, "We're very pleased they picked us to win. One of these years we'd like to make the sportswriters right in their forecast."

"You know, we have a two-game losing streak (Oklahoma and the Cotton Bowl to Arkansas) and it would be nice to open with South Dakota."

Selmer paid Pete Tatman, No. 2 fullback, is out four to eight weeks with a severely burned arm, the result of a motorcycle accident.

Iowa State's Clay Stapleton,

a staunch foe of two-platoon football, said he doesn't have enough quality depth to play two-way ball but must play it anyway. He praised the squad's enthusiasm after finishing last.

"The great thing about sports is that you always have a chance to redeem yourself," he said. "I'd hate to stop now."

"I only hope our sophs are as good as our 1962 sophs," Jones said. The Sooners won the championship in '62.

Missouri's Dan Devine said his club is potentially better than last year. "But every team in our league will be better."

He said offensive guards and center will be a problem but called his backfield the fastest at Missouri since 1960. Backs Charlie Brown and Ken Boston are expected to be ready after knee operations.

Jack Mitchell of Kansas said the big question on offense will be whether an improved air game led by Bob Skahan can make up for the loss of All-America halfback Gale Sayers. He expects the defense to be better.

"Of our knee cases," he said, "I'd say Mike Shinn has a 40 per cent change of playing through the season, Dick Pratt 65 per cent and Bill Perry 70."

Colorado's Eddie Crowder, speaking as the football coach and not the Athletic Director, noted his squad has only nine seniors and will be 62 per cent sophomore. But he added:

"We have a few men who are very gifted and will help us in the future, such as end Sam Harris and fullback Wilmer Cooks."

Twins Defeated By Indians; AL Standings Remain Same

By Associated Press

The Minnesota Twins lost their second game in three days Friday night but didn't lose any of their 8½-game lead in the American League.

Cleveland trimmed Minnesota 3-1, marking the first time the Twins have lost as many as three games out of three in three weeks. Their lead remained the same, however, because Washington defeated second-place Baltimore 4-2.

The Indians won with two runs in the fifth inning. Larry Brown racing home as Tony Oliva fumbled Len Wagner's single and Vic Davallio coming across on Jim Perry's wild pitch. Relief pitcher Bob Tiefenauer stopped the Twins after Oliva homered in the seventh.

The Senators stopped the Orioles with four double plays and home runs by Willie Kirkland, Mike Brumley and Dick Nen.

Bob Duhla raced home on a seventh-inning passing ball by J. C. Martin, giving Boston a 3-2 triumph over the Chicago White Sox. Felix Mantilla's Red Sox homer had pulled the two Sox into a 2-2 tie in the sixth.

The New York Yankees, getting clutch relief pitching from Steve Hamilton in the seventh inning, beat Kansas City 3-1. Hamilton relieved starter Jack Cullen with one out and the bases loaded and got Dick Green to hit into a double play. Clete Boyer drove in two Yankees runs.

Detroit edged the Los Angeles Angels 2-1 on Dick McAuliffe's second-inning, two-run homer. The Tigers'

Denny McLain, now 10-5, scattered 11 hits.

Gene Oliver cracked two homers and Ed Mathews one as Milwaukee whipped the Chicago Cubs 8-3. Denny Lemaster yielded six hits and struck out 13 for his first victory since June 11.

Houston handed the New York Mets their 11th straight defeat 3-2, scoring an earned run in the ninth inning on Rusty Staub's bases-loaded single.

Curt Flood snapped a tie with a run-scoring single in the seventh inning, then added a three-run homer in the eighth as St. Louis whipped Cincinnati 7-2.

Claude Osteen pitched a six-hitter and Lou Johnson contributed two key singles as National League-leading Los Angeles whipped Pittsburgh 3-1.

Philadelphia scored three unearned runs in the seventh inning with Dick Stuart's two-out single delivering the tie-breaker and beating Warren Spahn and San Francisco 3-2.

Muir Wins Third Title In British Swimming Meet

Blackpool, England (AP)—Karen Muir, South Africa's 12-year-old wonder swimmer, stormed to her third successive title at the British Championships Friday and became the youngest triple winner in the 25 years of the meet.

Karen shook the swimming world by setting a world record of 1:08.7 for the 110-yard women's backstroke on Tuesday. She set that record in a heat and went on to win the final. Then she collected the girls' 220-yard freestyle.

And Friday she capped her performances by winning the girls' 110-yard freestyle title in 1:05.9.

Dillon injured At Burwell Rodeo

North Team Will Scrimmage; Visit Shrine Hospital

Fremont (AP) — George Redding, head coach of the North high school Shrine Bowl football squad, said Friday that the squad will engage in a two-hour controlled scrimmage Sunday.

The squad will have a brief workout Saturday morning and then will fly to Minneapolis to visit the Shrine Hospital For Children. The South squad visited the hospital Friday.

The annual North-South game at Lincoln is played for the benefit of the Minneapolis hospital which serves Nebraska.

Boy, 16, Is Only Interested In Scientific Subjects

By DR. LESLIE J. NASON

Dear Dr. Nason: Our son will be 16 years of age soon. His mind dwells so intensely on scientific and mechanical things that he simply cannot make himself concentrate on such studies as Latin, mathematics or even English literature. This problem has been with him since the fourth grade. He excels in scientific things and recently won third place in the State Science Fair after winning first place in the County.

He wants to overcome his lack of success in other school subjects so much that he sits "glued" to his desk all afternoon and evening trying to catch up with Latin, etc. He wants to accomplish the things expected of him in order to reach college.

What can you suggest to help him keep his mind on his studies?

R.D., Dade City, Fla.

Answer:

To develop an interest in subjects other than science, your son must discipline himself to work hard and build up a larger body of knowledge in each. The more he learns about each subject, the easier it will be to put in the necessary time studying it.

Dear Dr. Nason:

My brother, Joe, in the 10th grade, studies with an 11th-grade A-plus boy friend. Joe says he forgets everything he has learned when the teacher gives them a test. His friend helps him prepare for his test and says he cannot understand how he fails the test after he has learned the information so well.

On Joe's last English test he studied extra hard. His friend said Joe knew everything on the study forms, but when he started to take the test, knowing he had to make good, he forgot all the answers.

Please give me an idea or session, your brother can be sharpening answer formulating skills needed in test-taking.

Dear Dr. Nason:

I have a four-year-old who is a "wiggler." His attention span is very short. Unless I can help him, I'm afraid he will be a nuisance to the teacher in school just as he is a problem to me.

Can you give me any suggestions?

Mrs. I.G., Geneva, Ia.

Answer:

Your child's attention is directed toward things he decides to think about, and he has no reason to keep his attention on any one thing for long. Giving him something to think about while listening to the stories you read to him will help him control his attention.

any help you can.

B.B., Jackson, Miss.

Answer:

Often when two students study together, the better student takes the lead and formulates both questions and answers. The other student understands the answers and feels that he is thereby prepared for the test when, in reality, he has had no practice in formulating answers on his own. Consequently, he is at a loss to answer questions worded differently on a test.

Your brother should first do his own reviewing for a test, formulating his own questions and answers. This could be followed by a review session with his friend — in which they take turns asking questions while the other answers without the aid of the book. Thus both in his own review and in the practice session, your brother can be sharpening answer formulating skills needed in test-taking.

Corn, Soybean Prices Are Up

Chicago (P) — A private weekly crop summary received a mildly bullish attitude toward corn and soybean futures Friday and both commodities added moderate gains in generally dull dealings on the Board of Trade.
The trade seemed to have been impressed by the summary issued by Quaker Oats Co. which expressed belief the government's estimates of corn and soybean production were too high. Quaker said that there still are several factors extending areas which received insufficient rainfall last weekend and will be in need of more moisture soon to prevent a crop deterioration.
At the close wheat was 14-1/4 cents a bushel higher, September $1.53-1/4; corn 1/2 cent higher, September $1.20-1/4; soybeans 1/4 cent higher, September $2.74-1/4.
